Raised on a Crow Indian reservation in Montana as the daughter of a tribal council member, Thomasine Hill is proud of her American Indian background and culture.

Of Crow-Pawnee ancestry, Thomasine has communicated this pride to others through her membership on the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission and her position as Miss Indian America of 1968-1969 — a title for which she was chosen on the basis of her knowledge of American Indian heritage and her dedication to the promotion of better human understanding of her Indian race.

As a resident of International House, Thomasine continues to befriend interesting people just as she did when a member of "Up With People." She traveled through 16 countries in three and a half years with that organization. And now, as an alumnus of the group, she serves on its international advisory board.

Thomasine attends the U of A on four scholarships and is majoring in American history with a minor in American Indian studies. A senior, and a swimming and tennis enthusiast, she is thinking of furthering her studies in ways that will enable her to enrich the lives of fellow human beings.

Much of Thomasine's time is taken up with her studies and her membership in the Amerind Club and her participation on the national board of the Campfire Girls. Both are organizations which she hopes to bring up to date.

Living mostly with consideration for the future, Thomasine Hill moves forward.

If you've ever wondered who the "O" is in Jack Lee's Twirling Circus, well wonder no longer. It is none other than Nancy L. Montoya, a Mexican-American trying to break into radio broadcasting, a predominantly white, male-oriented field.

Coming to Tucson from the small town of Clifton, Arizona, Nancy feels secure with her second year of college behind her and a bright future ahead. Her astrological sign, Taurus, says that this amiable and bubbly girl is "Una Muchacha Muy Contente."

The Montoya family is close-knit and achievement-oriented, but Nancy has found another family in the U of A Band. Through the band and membership in the honorary, Tau Beta Sigma, she has been able to relate to the other members, which is important in achieving the excellence which the band is noted for.

Though Nancy is a true Chicano, she feels she isn't discriminated against. To her way of thinking, the success and failure in a person's life is due to one's own skills and accomplishments, not one's ethnic background.

The radio broadcasting major has worked as a disc-jockey in both Clifton and Tucson for four years and is presently involved in a bilingual-bicultural program funded by the Federal Government to improve teaching methods in the mixed cultures of Tucson elementary schools.

Robert Oliver

Being male, 5'7", a freshman, and weighing only 120 pounds, could give anyone an inferiority complex! Robert Oliver is no exception.

His inferiority complex stems from his feelings that he is socially inadequate.

This point is driven in daily, as his roommate, Steve, who is an athletic, musclebound, frat rat. Feeling intimidated by "Greeks" one day, Ollie and some others formed their own fraternity, appropriately named . . . "SIGMA PHI NOTHING." Nothing is just about all they do, but the novelty of the name keeps the crew together.

Although he registers no complaints against any of his instructors, Ollie believes courses are too watered down to accommodate a greater number of students. As a history major, he finds his courses lack inspiration. He doesn't believe he's being intellectually stimulated. His father is a professor of architecture at Arizona State University and his sister is pulling straight A's at Yale University. Ollie says he "will feel his insignificance if he can't do as well."

Ollie is finding himself sitting around campus a good deal just watching all the people go by. Occasionally, he runs across a Jesus freak, and intimidates him with every rebuttal on religion imaginable. Ollie doesn't believe in God; he believes in an individualistic religion — one in which the person involved has complete control over his or her accomplishments and failures.

Ollie is fascinated with politics, and has aspirations of making it his career. He openly admits to being prejudiced against Republicans. Needless to say, he's getting extreme pleasure and satisfaction out of Watergate. When asked to comment on himself, Ollie laughed nervously and said, "I'm a tremendous hypocrite... too honest for my own good!"

Doug Kelly

Doug Kelly — honor student, athlete, fraternity member, medical student — is totally involved in every part of University life.

"I have deep feelings for the U...I like my school... the campus... the people... the social situation... the way people treat you. School's gotta mean more than just going to classes and taking notes."

Doug supports this belief by his affiliation with Sigma Nu fraternity and his involvement with the school wrestling team. A shoulder separation last year ended his wrestling with the team, but he still works out whenever possible with his favorite sport.

The best part of athletics for Doug was "getting to know guys on the team — I got to know another side of people."

"Scooter," as he is known, accumulated a seemingly countless number of scholastic awards including: Sophomore Man of the Year Award, the WAC Scholar-Athlete Award, a listing in Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, and past participation in Phi Eta Sigma, Sophos, Chain Gang and Bobcats. Doug applied for early admission and was accepted into med school his junior year. Equally unique, he skipped his senior year and won the Peter Lowell Dreyden Award as the outstanding senior Traditions member.

Medical school dominates his life now. "Med school was always in the front of my mind," he says. Presently in his second year of a three-year program, Doug hopes to combine his interests in sports and medicine by becoming a physician for an athletic team and possibly a career as an orthopedic surgeon.

To be a doctor means intense work and complete concern for people, and Scooter's goals are aimed in that direction. "I don't want it to sound corny, but what I'm doing now is getting all the information I can so that someday I can help somebody."

Ray Vaughn Pyle II and Vincent J. Pyle are identical twins and many people feel that this makes them alike in all aspects. They belong to the same organizations on campus, but their philosophies and outlooks on life make them individuals. They stand strongly for what they believe and intend to live their lives accordingly.

Vaughn and Vince came to the U of A in 1968 when they were becoming involved in the black movement which was strong in their home of Washington, D.C.

The Black Student Union, which they joined because "it seemed mandatory, like a duty," was very strong in its national sympathies. However, it did not deal with the University on its own level. Two years later it was almost dead.

Vaughn became president of BSU in 1972 and spent that year trying to change its image from that of the "violent, tough, militant athlete." Last spring the BSU gained an important position when the ASUA Appropriations Board granted the group funding, thus recognizing it as a valid campus club.

Both Vince and Vaughn joined the Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity because "Alpha is and was an accelerating and confidence establishing point in my life," said Vaughn. He added that Alpha had a legacy of leaders in its membership rolls including Thurgood Marshall, Martin Luther King Jr., and O. J. Simpson.

Vince received his B.S. in zoology in 1972 and then took off to work. He became dissatisfied with this so applied for med school and now is working on a degree in creative writing while awaiting acceptance. "I found out quite late that it is possible to major in something other than chemistry or biology to apply for med school."

After taking off a year after his sophomore year and transferring to another school for a year, Vaughn is finishing a degree in sociology with a minor in bio-science and government. Hoping to get accepted to law school, Vaughn is optimistic about his LSAT scores.

Chess Trethewy

ARTICLE BY:

Robert "Chess" Trethewy, the yell king for the Varsity Cheerleaders, is better known as his alias of the incomparable "A-Man," conqueror of all U of A athletic foes and champion of the rabid Wildcat fans.

A former student of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Chess is currently concentrating his efforts toward the field of foreign service, as he anticipates a future as ambassador to New Zealand!

Looking back, Chess has no regrets concerning his decision to leave the Academy, and viewed his appointment by Congressman Sam Steiger as a great honor and a tremendous opportunity. It was Chess's feeling, though that Academy life was not suited to him.

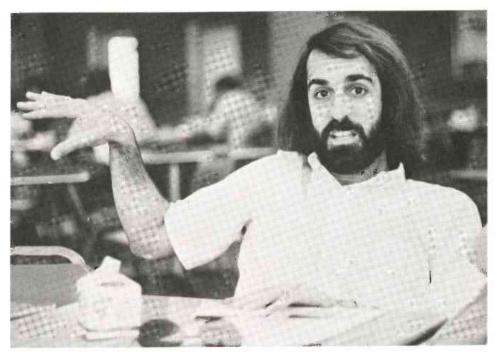

"There is a tremendous loss of individualism and although I admire the discipline and think it is essential for the military or any large unit or team, I didn't enjoy the limitations and so felt it best to leave instead of compromising my beliefs."

Chess' involvement on campus goes beyond his role as A-Man and yell king. He also is a member of Traditions and Blue Key, and hashes at a sorority.

Chess is a deeply religious individual, and he feels that the organized church has no place in his life. Religion for him is a personal thing, and his relationship with God is something the church or no other man can share.

As yell king he loves to perform in front of the fans, but he is sensitive to comments about his cheerleading and A-Man routines. Spending much of his time during games clowning around and having fun, Chess admits he is a ham at heart.

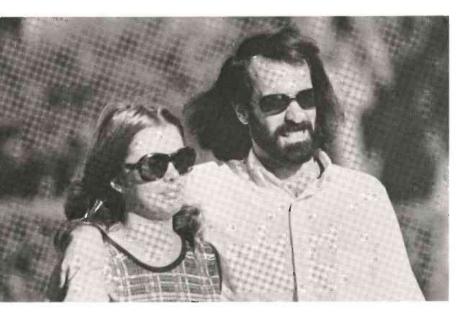

Joseph Troncale

"The irony is that the Army chose my great love for me," muses Joseph Troncale, a Russian language teaching assistant.

After the Army sent him to the Foreign Language Institute in Monterey for two years, he emerged with a new perspective and a consuming interest in Russian culture and literature. Troncale studied it further in New Orleans after his discharge.

"People don't know what they want because they don't look around enough," says Troncale.

An outgoing, active man of Italian descent, his interests range from sports to music and art. At one point he spent eight years in a seminary, several months as a teacher, coach and secretary at a Catholic mission in Missouri, and some time in incidental Shakespearean acting.

In 1972, Troncale accepted an assistanceship to the U of A, "where I can get experience teaching and learn Russian at the same time."

Troncale now is working toward a Masters and wants to extend his studies to include Russian history.

The Russian Department is a good one with cooperative, friendly people, he says. "Everybody knows his responsibility and gets things done."

Troncale and his wife expect to be at the University for at least five more years. He hopes to travel to the Soviet Union either as a State Department guide or as a student with a summer program.

"I want to go," he concludes, "to meet more Russians. There's a quality — a warmth — a hospitality — about the Russian people."

Mark Goss

ARTICLE BY:

"Go as many places and meet as many people as you can," says freshman Mark Goss. And he has done his fill of travelling in his lifetime.

In 1971 Mark went to Guayape, Honduras with Amigos de las Americas as a paramedical aid giving vaccinations to a community of 1000 people while living in an old, abandoned mud hut and eating beans, rice and potatoes.

Mark's travels have included learning the cultures of the people as well. While living in Quebec in 1973, Mark did everything from breaking rocks with sledge hammers to commercial painting touch-ups. There he learned the lifestyle of the French people.

As a romance languages major with a minor in anthropology, Mark is hoping to be accepted into law school with international law as his final goal. Mark plans to finish his education in Guadalajara, Mexico.

Mark's interest in anthropology started when he found his first arrowheads in Tastiota, Mexico. Since then Mark has gathered quite a collection.

Mark's social life also is his education. In his spare time he travels to Mexico to practice his Spanish with the older Mexicans.

Mark joined the Delta Tau Delta fraternity as a townsmember and lives in an apartment with two of his friends because he enjoys his privacy.

Camping and hunting are two of Mark's hobbies but he has stopped the hunting as an act of animal preservation. However he feels that camping teaches a person to live without the comforts of home.

In closing, Mark says he likes the West because it is not as over-crowded as the East. Unfortunately, he sees the population shifting Westward and says, "The more people I see coming out West, the more I hate to see more people."

Bobbie Mero

ARTICLE BY:

CARLA CARTER

PHOTOS BY: JAY DUNN and DANNY PEPPER

Barbara Mero, known as Bobbie, is one of seven women in the University's Air Force ROTC program. She settled in Tempe and attended schools there until she married and divorced.

Although Bobbie went to Arizona State University for a year and a half, during which time she changed her major five times, a desire for a "new start" after her divorce brought her to Tucson.

"Tucson offers the advantages of a large city with the atmosphere of a small town," Bobbie says, adding, "I feel at home here."

She considers the Air Force a good opportunity for women, since they are accorded both equality and consideration as well as good pay.

"In the Air Force, behavior is legislated to our benefit," she concludes.

Bobbie first took a semester of ROTC "to see what it's like" and on coming to Tucson enrolled in the University's two-year program.

She attended camp last Summer — a mandatory activity for upper level ROTC students — and in August signed a contract formally committing her to the Air Force after graduation.

As Cadet Second Lieutenant Mero, Bobbie edits the detachment's monthly newsletter, Mach 73, which profiles people and lists coming events in the corps, and works on the Information Staff, dispensing facts about the Air Force to high school students and other interested parties.

After class, Bobbie exchanges her Air Force blues for a perky straw hat and bow tied shirt to become a "pizza pusher" at the Straw Hat Pizza Palace.

A secondary education major, she spends two hours a week helping junior high school students with problems in reading and math.

People here at the U are more free, friendly and relaxed than at ASU, and she notes that there is less pressure.

Bobbie's future is fairly settled. "First, I want to get my commission," she says firmly. She is engaged to an Air Force captain and plans to stay in the Air Force "at least ten or twelve years — more if we have a family."

Neil Gibbs

Charles Neil Gibbs, a liberal arts junior from Boston, came to the University of Arizona on a scholarship from the Department of Rehabilitation of Massachusetts.

A blood clot on the brain, which occurred one day after birth, resulted in Cerebral Palsey, leaving Neil partially spastic for life. However, his perseverance and positive attitude toward continual growth has, in the words of a friend, "made him one helluva strong individual and a happy, beautiful person."

Neil believes in having a sense of direction and he finds that direction through religion, love and awareness of self and others. He has many friends and is always interested in finding more.

"My 'No. 1' hobby is people," he

"My 'No. 1' hobby is people," he says, "getting to know and understand them as best I can."

This is reflected in Neil's major of psychology and a split minor of sociology and math.

Although he is limited to taking six to nine units per semester, Neil has achieved junior status in three years and remains very active on and off campus.

He is a member of the Association for the Independence of the Disabled (AID), an organization whose purpose is to promote understanding between the handicapped and nonhandicapped on campus.

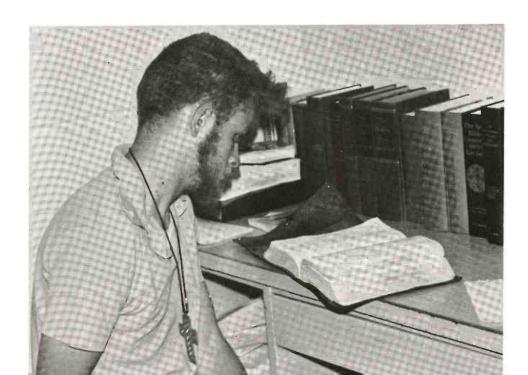

Neil worked during the Summer of 1973 as a psychological counselor at the Baptist Student Center in exchange for his room and board.

He attends meetings and occasionally travels as a member of both the Baptist Center and the "Vineyard," a Tucson coffee house and Christian meeting place.

Neil's religious convictions are a central aspect of his character because he doesn't embrace the doctrines of any one particular religion. "I think denominations are like clubs." He is a devout Christian and is seldom without Bible in hand.

In the future, Neil's plans include theological seminary study. He aspires to eventually become a Christian psychology counselor.

Willie Asombang

ARTICLE and PHOTOS BY:
MINDY GATES

Wilfred Wasi Asombang, a graduate student from the United Republic of Cameroon, on Africa's West coast, has experienced much during what he terms his "sabbatical" in the United States.

Willie first came to the U.S.A. on August 11, 1971, as a member of the African-American Institute program, AFGRAD, working in collaboration with the Cameroon government. Willie attended the University of Minnesota and came to the U of A in January of last year.

"I had no problem at all," he said referring to the language. "Both English and French are taught in school and spoken everyday; however one does find it very difficult to do anything out of school, except holidays. There are too many quizzes, too many assignments."

Although he lives alone in a small apartment, Willie never misses a chance to meet people. He said a friendship depends more on your attitude than where you are. "Friendship is two-way traffic, social reciprocity."

Willie has encountered discrimination in the United States, but he is not bothered by it, seeing prejudice as "part of the value system" in the U.S.

"If I encounter a difficult situation, that won't bother me if I find you have your own prejudice. I take people for what they are."

Willie, who has already completed his MBA in agricultural economics said, "I have a very good impression of the University. I found the professors most interested and they are doing their work very well. They are a happy crew of fellows. It is not like an uptight place."

Willie will leave the United States in June and hopes to visit his brother in London and maybe tour France. When he returns to Cameroon, Willie will have a guaranteed job with the Cameroon Development Corporation.

But Willie says he will never forget his stay at the U of A, a "pearl in the desert," as he calls it. "I will have wonderful memories when I return home."

Esther Trachtenberg

"Time is the most precious thing in the world," claims Esther Trachtenberg. At age 72, Esther believes that life is what you make it.

Both Esther and her husband, Samuel, refuse to be inactive. Samuel, who has received congratulations and compliments on his artistic works from many national and world leaders, has devoted his free time to his talent in the art field. His gallery is a converted garage behind their First Avenue home.

Esther has kept active by taking classes at the U of A. Her warmth and cheery sense of humor have kept classes in government and economics alive this year.

Although Esther is able to take only six units per semester, she now is at the sophomore level and thoroughly enjoying every minute of her education. She is pleased that most everyone on campus is friendly. It makes her sad to see that some act like "wind up toys or machines." But, like herself, she finds that most people go out of their way to meet others.

With a beaming smile on her face, Esther admits that "one of my professors even calls me sweetheart!" Her instructors often use the "active, little-old-lady" example to motivate their younger, apathetic students.

The Trachtenbergs moved to Tucson seven years ago, and the only thing they dislike about the city is the absence of an adequate public transportation system. Samuel added, "If you don't have a car, you can't even work!" Esther goes to school and runs all her errands by riding a 'three wheeled bicycle."

The Social Security couple's lives today are centered around their hobbies — his art and her education.

Esther never would give up her education. As she puts it, "It's my outlet. If I didn't go to the University, I'd stay home scrubbing. So my house is a little dirtier, but my life is a lot happier."

CHUCK KNIGHT

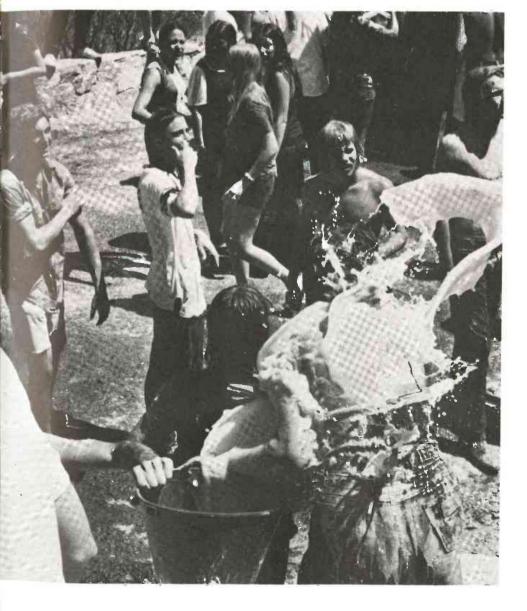

A Day

Freshmen at the University of Arizona have a unique way of making friends: they gather atop "A Mountain" early in the school year and throw whitewash on each other. At A-Day, it is not unusual to see a senior Traditions Committee member smile calmly down at you while he dunks your head in a bucket of paint. The day culminates with the traditional mass-dunking in the fountain in front of Old Main, where blue jeans become blue again, hair returns to its natural color and, hopefully, a few new friends are made.

Alumni

It's amazing to find that UA graduates are more active than many full-time students. The alumni seem to be the last of the fans who still wear red and blue to the games and still sing "Bear Down, Arizona."

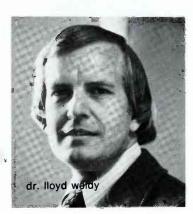

Artist Series

The Artist Series is concerned with introducing outstanding artistic talents to the U of A in the form of concerts, musicals and theatre productions. This year, under the aegis of Dr. Lloyd Weldy, University director of concerts and public affairs, the series included a unique blend of contemporary and classical entertainment featuring some of the most outstanding talents on the American scene today. First semester events included The Alvin Ailey City Center Dance Theater, the Jose Feliciano Show and the University musical production of "Anything Goes." Programs scheduled for second semester were Christopher Parkening (classic guitarist), Beveridge Webster (concert pianist), the Oslo Philharmonic Orchestra and the Los Angeles Philharmonic.

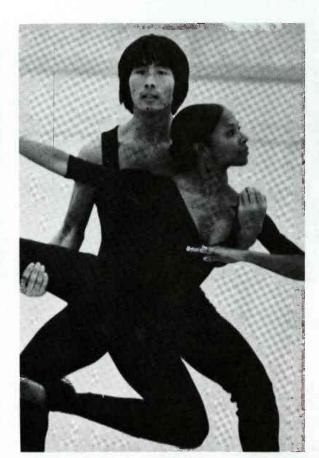

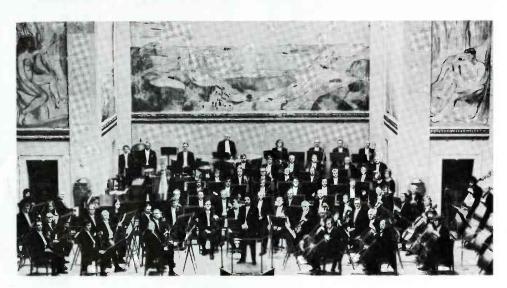

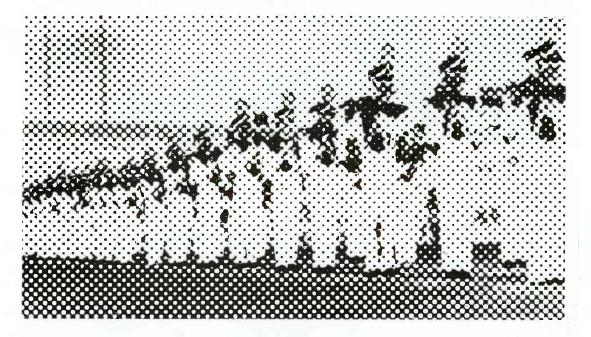

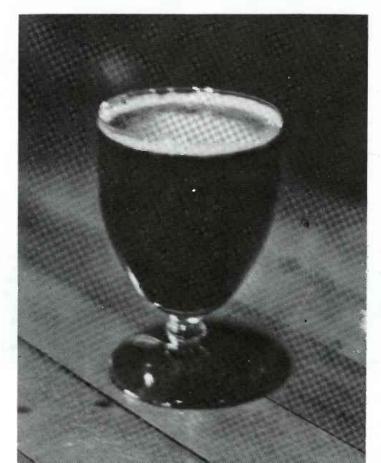

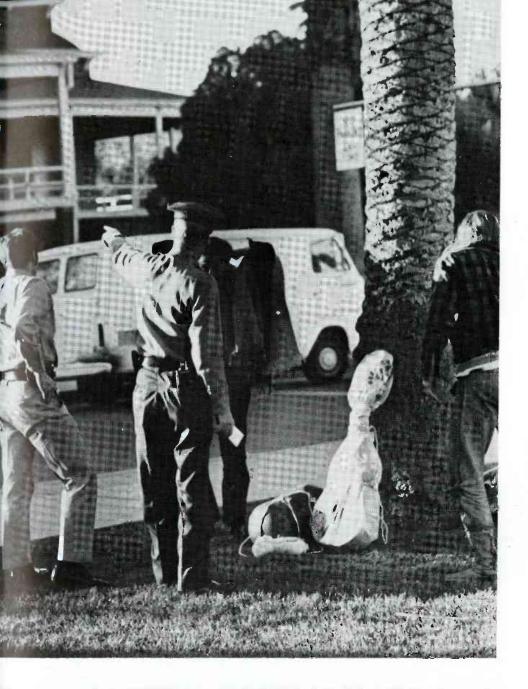

Band Day

On Band Day the Mall in front of the Student Union looked like a reenactment of the Revolutionary War, as bright uniformed band members from high schools all over Arizona congregated to perform during the half time ceremonies of the Arizona-Utah football game.

Bars

Bars in Tucson range from quiet places to go "just for a drink" to wild topless and bottomless places to go to "get really smashed." Hurry up 19th birthday.

Bicycles

Everywhere, 10 speeds. Chained around trees, skidding to class, or just cruising around, there are bicycles everywhere. They give the campus cops ulcers, but they're fun and if you can avoid hitting people, running into signs and policemen, they're a heckuva lot better than walking.

Campus Cops

Cops on campus do just about everything off-campus cops do, such as investigating robberies and chasing speeding drivers. But campus cops enjoy extra excitement such as checking parking stickers, accosting 10-speeders (see bicycles) and tracking down suspicious smells(see marijuana).

Clock Tower

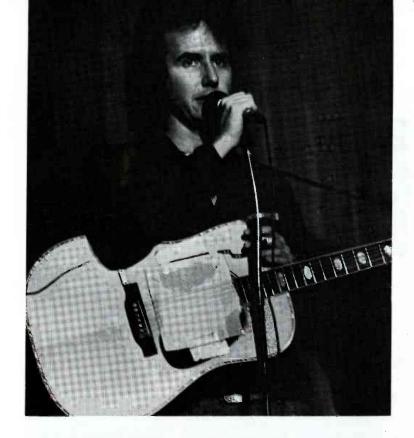

Forget those Accutron watch commercials; the huge clock tower jutting above the Student Union usually doesn't lie — and even if it does — it's a good excuse for being late to class.

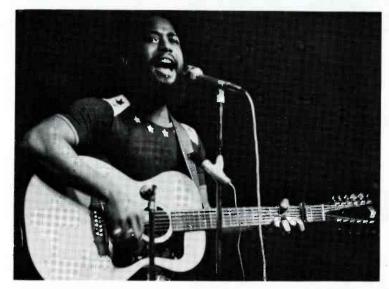

Concerts

The jukebox in the Cellar was silent for a change as forceful performers such as Josh White, Jr. and John Stewart provided live action. There are large concerts such as those given by the UA concert bands and choirs and at the Tucson Community Center.

Crafts Fair

Necklaces, rings, bracelets, leather goods, fashioned by students and local craftsmen, as well as small cactus plants are among the products offered for sale during Crafts Fair days, when the bicycle parking area across from the bookstore is transformed into a crowded market place.

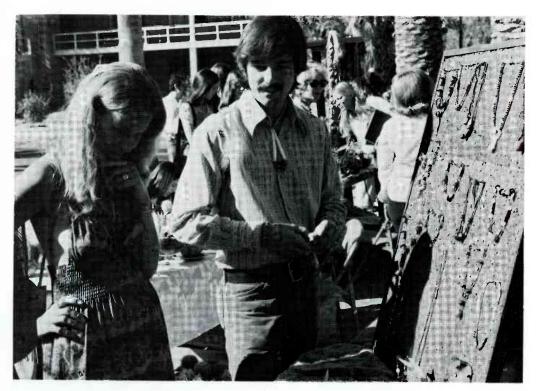

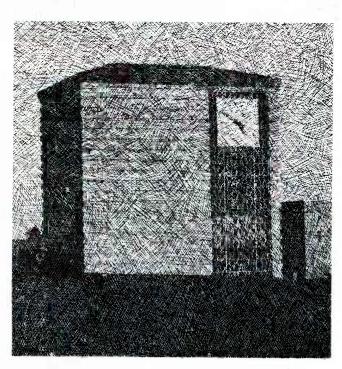

Dating

If you're nearly broke or if your car is in the shop or if you're simply a cheapskate, you can take your date to the Gallagher or the Games Room or at least to Louie's for an inexpensive evening. If you're a little wealthier, the dating situation enlarges to include many possibilities. From miniature golf to bars to good restaurants to just a ride up to the mountains or into the desert — you can always find something fun to do in Tucson.

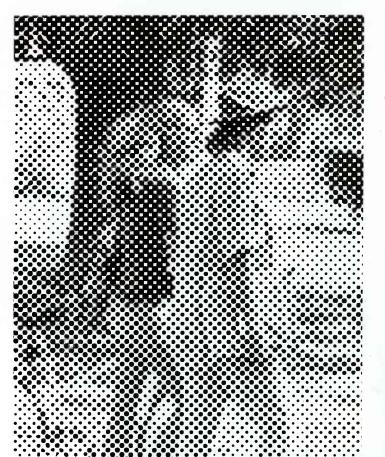

Dogs

Arizona dogs learn early in life not to lift their legs around cactus. This knowledge is probably gained through painful experience, and the dogs on campus instead spend much of the day playing in the sprinklers, chasing frisbees and lounging in the sun. Come to think of it, that's what most of the students do in their spare time, too.

Dorms

Most of the girl's dorms are fairly civilized in appearance; most of the boy's dorms look like smaller versions of Arizona State Penitentiary. The students manage to get their minds off of the Gross-Green and Yecch-Yellow walls of the dorm by studying in the library, listening to stereos and partying a good deal of the time — thus survive dorm life.

Drama

A bold and diverse year of dramatic productions offered by the University's Department of Drama, headed by Peter Marroney, included November revival performances of Cole Porter's period musical "Anything Goes" in the Main Auditorium, five major productions on the department's 'Main Stage' and seven offerings in the Lyceum Series. "Vivat! Vivat Regina!" opened the 'Main Stage' year in September, followed by the October production of "Biedermann and the Firebugs." Spring Semester 'Main Stage' offerings included "King Richard the Second", "Witness for the Prosecution" and "Under Two Flags." The Lyceum Series' 1973-1974 production schedule included "The Silent Waltz", "Comings and Goings", "No Place to be Somebody", "Anna Kleiber", "A Thousand Clowns", "The Miser" and "An Evening of Harold Pinter."

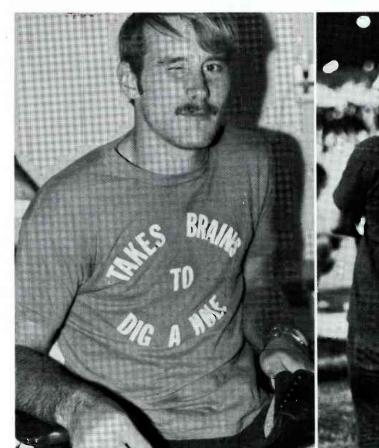

Energy

As everywhere else in the nation, lights on the U of A campus dimmed with the onslaught of the energy crisis. Gasoline prices skyrocketed as petroleum products became more scarce. Gas station lines became a way of life. Natural gas consumption decreased. And all over campus students did their part by sleeping on the grass several hours per day — an obvious effort to conserve energy.

Fads

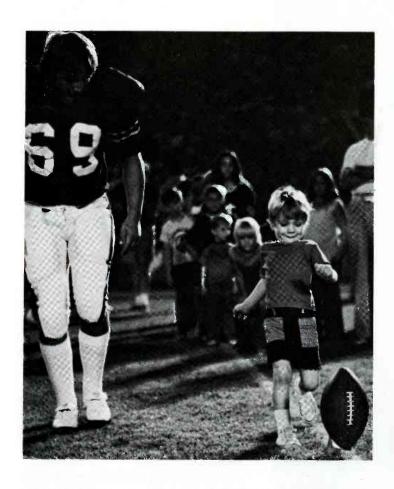

Call the lowly T-shirt what you will — tummy art, T-scenery, belly billboard — but the craze that hit campus last Spring continues to dominate the rag scene. Graphics and words picking up on the quirks, whims, messages and promotions of the moment. And what a variety! The whole nostalgia trip. Ecology. Sports. Fraternities. Politics. Watergate. Ethnic pride. Beer. You name it, there's a shirt that tells it! As American as blue jeans and Mom's apple pie. And it's 1974's numberone counterculture status symbol.

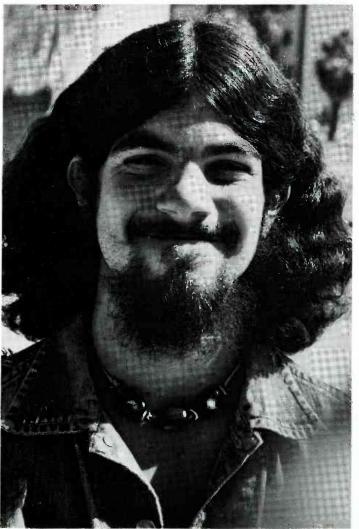

Headgear is one of those casual, personal things that tells the world you're doing your own thing — be it keeping your head cool, warm, dry, together or on. Made in cotton knit, stitched leather, pressed felt, polyester. Fancy or plain, big or small, bright or subtle. It's one of those new lifestyle manifestations of modern man born from his past. It's different, and it's fun.

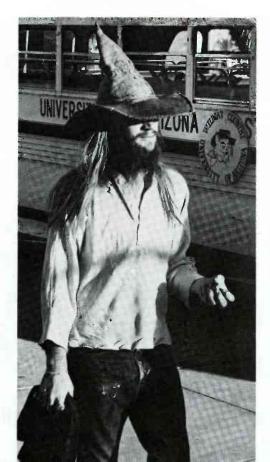

ve get it on;

Fan's Night

Tucson youngsters turned out in large numbers on 'Fan's Night' to catch a look at the team of Wildcats. They looked in awe at the players, listened to some helpful advice and dreamt of the day when the football wouldn't look so big and when the helmets and shoulder pads would fit.

Freaks

With nearly 30,000 people at the U of A, the student body has to be pretty diverse, and the freaks on campus are giving the jocks and straighttypes some good competition — to the point where everyone tries to look a little freaky in his/her own way.

Greek Week

It's Spring, and for thousands of U of A Greeks that means seven days of philanthropic endeavors, informal merriment, feasts, drink-a-thons, spirited competitions for points and general fun 'n games time between sororities and fraternities. Artistic T-shirts abound — all new, some unique. Watermelon becomes the favorite airborne missile. Chicks take up cigar smoking with a vengeance. And charioteers race at the stadium. A relaxing, unifying experience.

Homecoming

What's a Guendelsberger? No, it isn't a new offering at McDonald's, but our Homecoming Queen for '73. Many students regarded the traditional Homecoming activities with an attitude of indifference, and Arizona's defeat by Air Force on the football field didn't help matters any. But the large number of empty liquor bottles scattered in the vicinity of the stadium indicated that not all traditions were forgotten.

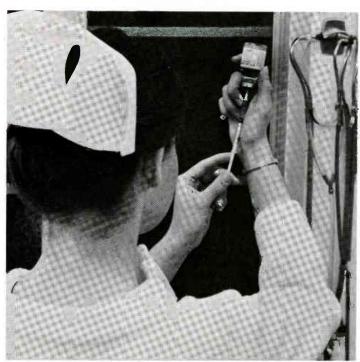

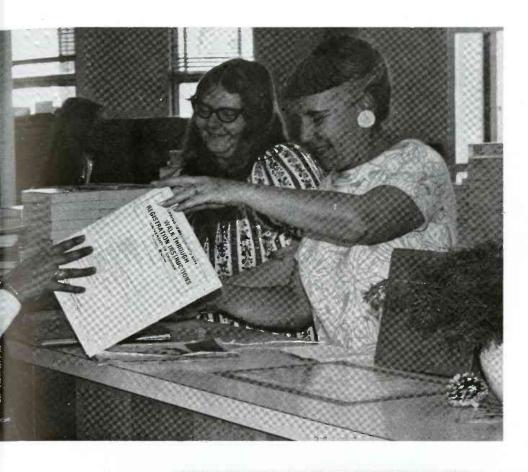

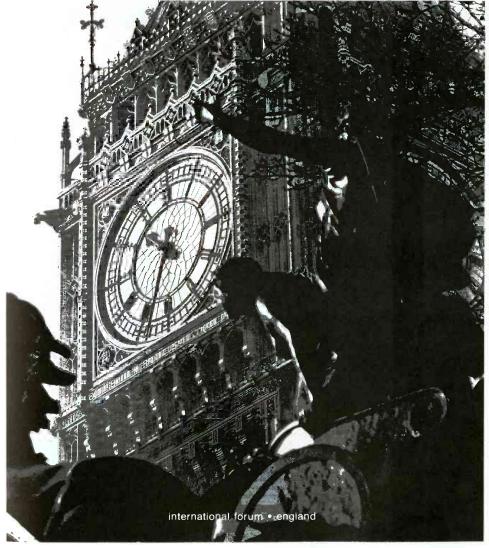

Health Center

The Student Health Center: "Here, take two of these three times a day, or three of these two times a day, or two in the morning, two in the afternoon and two before you go to bed, or . . ."

Ice Cream

lce cream eaters are plentiful at Arizona, and it is one of the few pleasures around that isn't illegal. The Parfait Palace, Farrell's, Baskin-Robbins, Swensen's and the Palace of Sweets are just a few of the nearby places to go to forget you're on a diet and to devour everything in sight. They even have dill-pickle ice cream — so don't be a clod and order vanilla.

Information

Logically enough, the Information Counter is the place to go if you need some information — and chances are you will, sooner or later. If you happen to be stumbling around campus in a daze, O. D. DeMonte at the Information Counter won't call in the men in white suits for asking some dumb question like, "Where am !?"

International

England came to Arizona for one event-filled week in February under the auspices of the annual SUAB International Forum. Activities included trade exhibits, movies, plays, receptions, food bazaars, speakers, Medieval fighting, an art exhibit, auto show, banquet, fashion show and traditional English contests galore to entertain and amuse the entire campus.

International Variety Show

The International Variety Show climaxed 1973's International Week — seven days designed "to reach American students and the public in general." These goals were achieved when some 700 people came to the show to learn something about the arts and cultures of the 21 countries represented. Entertainments included native Greek and African dances, imitative performances such as Jeff Yorink's Charlie Chaplin and folk and classical music.

The "Super Jocks" on campus aren't necessarily limited to the Young/Snowden gladiatorial sportsters. Intramuralists — individuals and tribe-like teams — are doing their own sporting things in increasing numbers. More men and women than ever before. At the ping pong table, swimming pool, weight room or golf course (see the DESERT/74 Athletics Section for a detailed listing). During all seasons of the year. Day and night. And always for the fun of it!

Invisible Theatre

Enthusiastic actors, writers, directors, tech, prop and costume people comprise the Invisible Theatre — a group "dedicated to the production of original plays." The ensemble has lived up to its intent, having produced some 17 original pieces including Dennis Hackin's "Penetration Flatts" caper; "Test Patterns" with lyrics by Harry S. Robins and score by Merle Reagle; "Oats," a western spoofgiggle by the team of Scott Carter and (again) Reagle, and "Careless," a comedic English murder mystery by Bob Campbell and (again) Carter.

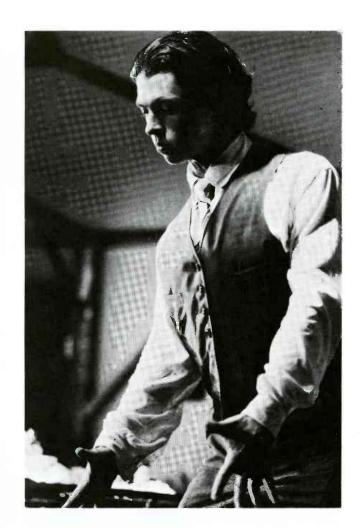

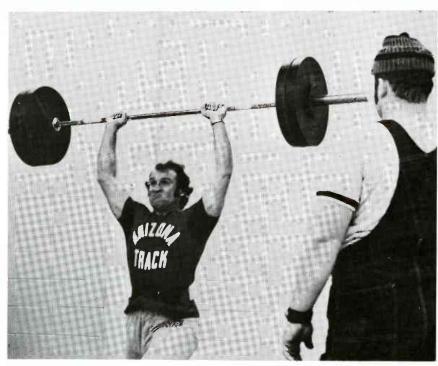

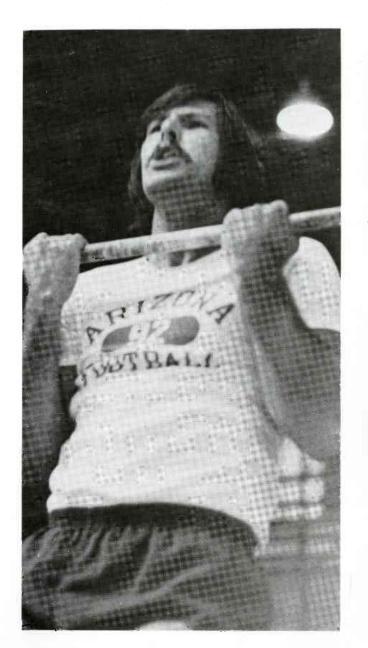

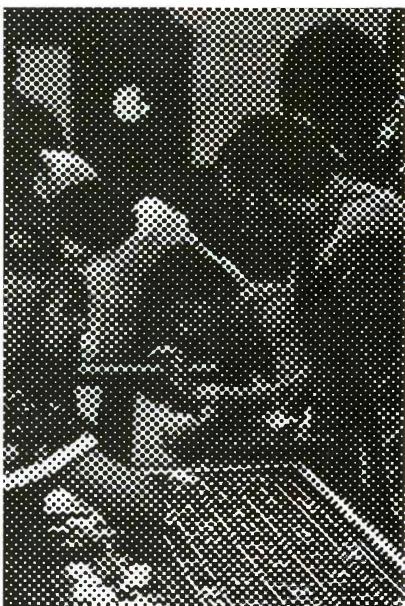

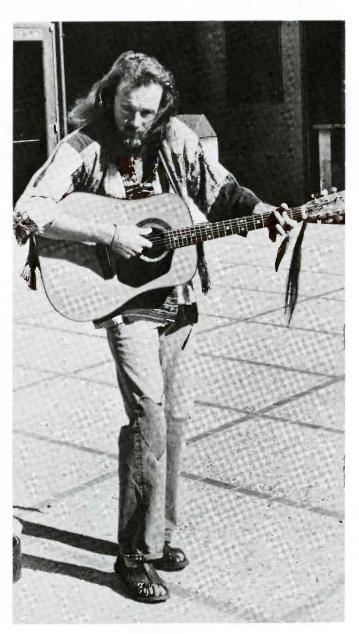

Jesus Freaks

Some students search for more than material riches in life. These students seek spiritual satisfaction; the peace of mind, happiness and fulfillment that comes from religious contemplation.

Jocks

When his team is winning, the jock is glorified; when it is losing, he is looked at with disgust. There are as many kinds of jocks as there are people, but jocks must surely be united in their dislike for the neverending and overused "jock-strap" jokes that torment them constantly.

Kegs

It gets hot in Tucson, and many students avoid dehydration problems by drinking a lot — namely, beer. The big, silver cylindrical kegs don't stay full very long, and when you're out of Schlitz, it's time for some Bud, or some Miller, or some Coors, or some

Las Vegas Night

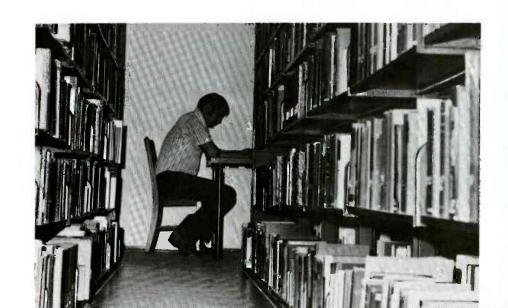

For one night students can throw away books and become full-fledged, greedy gamblers. Poker? Keno? Craps? Black-jack? On Las Vegas Night, name your game and put your money on the line, in an atmosphere enhanced by the music of "Hot Lucy" and a dance act in the true tradition of Las Vegas.

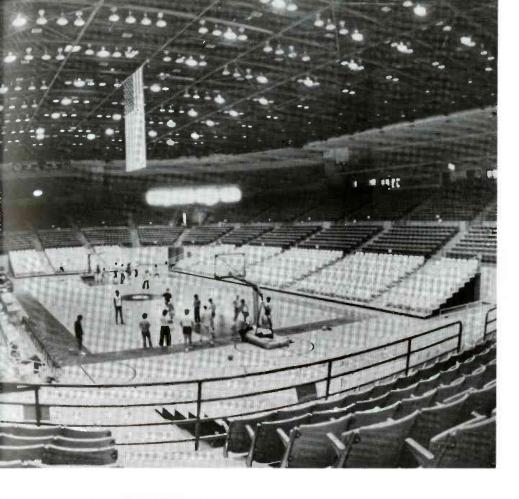

Library

There's a Main Library, a Science and Humanities Library, and another library under construction, so somebody at the U of A must be studying. For unknown reasons, the population at the library increases drastically just before finals. For some, it's a place to escape the noise in the dorms; for others, a place for a bleary-eyed, last-ditch attempt at cramming, and for others the library is just a place for reading and relaxation.

Loft

They call it the "New Loft," and it makes one wonder what the "Old Loft" must have looked like. Going to the Loft is like going up in Granny's attic to watch home movies. The Loft does offer good movies, and even without Granny, it's a great experience.

Main Gate

The Main Gate is, uh, the Main Gate — the primary traffic entrance to campus. Let's see, the gate is black, wrought iron, and there's a little guard station, too. The station is green, with four little blinking orange lights on top. What more can be said?

Marijuana

It's true grass is always greener on the other side of the border, but a lot of that green grass ends up on this side of the border — and on campus. At the U of A, a "joint" isn't just a part of the human anatomy; "papers" refer to something besides the Arizona Daily Wildcat, and little plastic bags are used for more than keeping sandwiches fresh.

McKale Center

The Astrodome's little brother is alive and well on the U of A campus. Known as "McKale," named in the honor of Arizona's great coach and athletic director, J. F. "Pop" McKale, the building serves as the center for physical education classes and for the Wildcat's nationally-ranked basketball team and various other athletic groups.

N

Nixon

For a man who didn't want to be kicked around by the press any more, Richard Nixon sure made the headlines a lot. And, was Bryna Vertlieb yet another victim of Watergate? This question and many more will never be answered, as each person tries to sort out and evaluate the facts. Some opinions are obvious, as bumper stickers proclaiming, "Impeachment with Honor" and "Impeach the S.O.B." seem to be everywhere. Others prefer to look beyond, to the damaging effects of Watergate on the presidency and the American political system as a whole.

Nogales

Nogales, Mexico, is more than a place to go to drink cerveza and tequila, to check out the senoritas and come down with Montezuma's Revenge. It's a good place to buy Christmas presents and to get a first-hand look into another culture. If you're not too much of a dumb gringo and are a halfway-decent bargainer, you may have a few pesos left over for a couple hits of that tequila.

Old Main

Old Main didn't get its name for nothing; it's the granddaddy of University buildings, and looks it. From the outside, it looks like a fort that the Indians didn't even bother attacking. The inside, though, proves that the modern age has really arrived. Inside are various administrative offices and the home of the University's ROTC program.

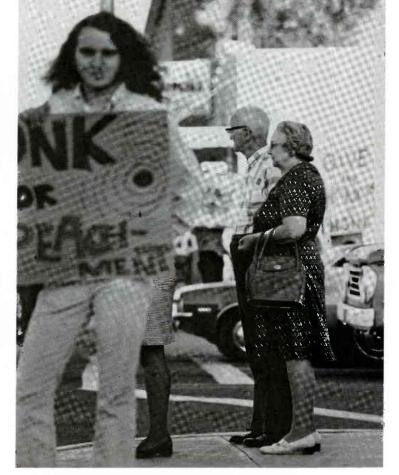

Parties

"Hey, where'd all the beer go?" At the U of A, parties are frequent (Pre-Christmas parties, Post-Christmas parties, etc.), and the refreshments don't seem to last long. "But we just bought that case a few minutes ago!"

Parents' Day

One day a year students at least try to clean their rooms — Parent's Day. On this occasion parents take campus tours, visit with deans and faculty members, attend receptions and generally try to figure out what they're blowing all of their hard-earned cash on.

Parking

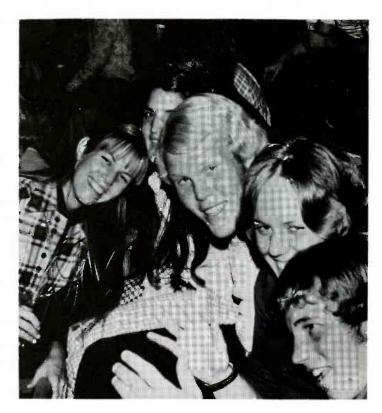

Parking on campus is, to put it mildly, difficult. The trick seems to be: 1) Tie a bicycle to the back of your car. 2) Get your car parked as close to campus as possible. 3) Untie the bicycle and proceed to class, avoiding campus cops, who love to give tickets to bicyclists.

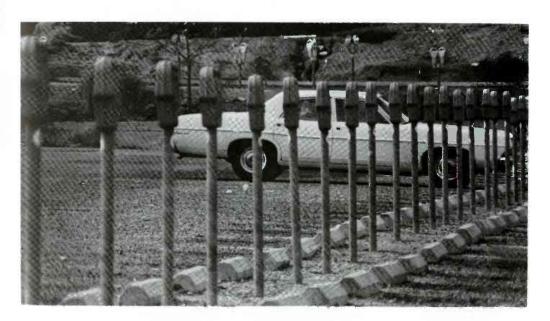

Pools

It's hot; over 100 degrees. You are crawling across campus, slowly. "Water, water...," you gasp. Off in the distance you see water. You crawl faster. Is it a mirage? No. There are three swimming pools at the U of A: one behind the Student Union, one behind Bear Down and another behind the Girl's Physical Education Building. There also is quite a selection of water fountains.

Quizzes

One of the harsher aspects of college life centers on the subject of quizzes and tests. How can professors be so cruel? How can you be so stupid? Just 'cause you failed a couple of tests is no reason to volunteer to play Russian Roulette with the faculty of the Russian Department.

Rain

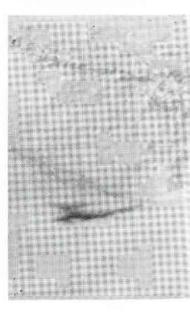

"Rain? I saw some once when I was a little kid." Seriously, it really does rain once in awhile in Arizona. You just have to be quick to see it.

Registration

Registration tends to tarnish the enthusiasm of many a freshman. For that matter, it doesn't do much for the enthusiasm of upperclassmen, either. Preregister if you can, and if not . . . good luck — and may you rest in peace.

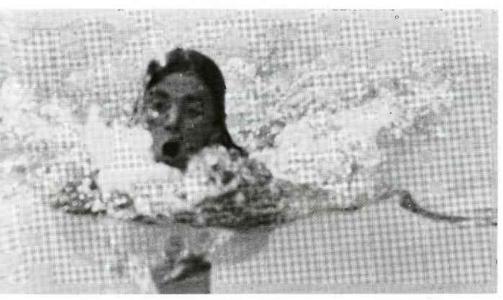

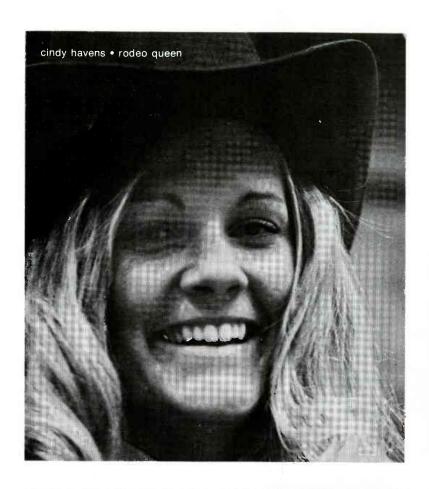

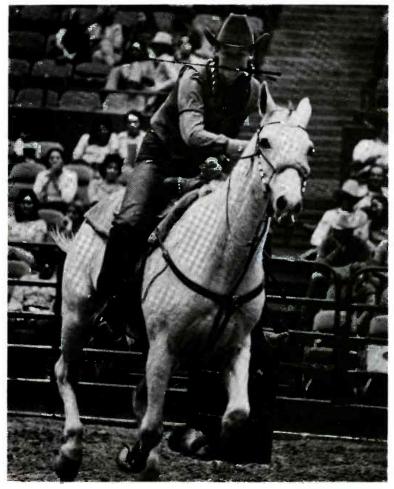

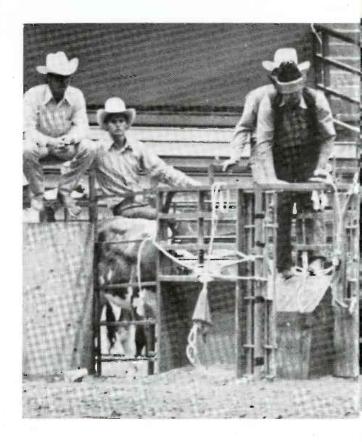

Rodeo

Not everyone at Arizona is an exile from some smog-infested and congested city such as New York or Chicago, as is the popular misconception. In fact, a few people know that the word "horse" means more than just the slang word for a certain narcotic. This was evident at the University's 34th Annual Rodeo as contestants from over 20 colleges and universities in Arizona, California and Nevada gathered to test their riding and roping talents. Bulls snorted and tossed their riders around like flimsy puppets, ropes twirled around scurrying animals, and many participants spent a good deal of time falling . . . on the ground.

Senior Day

Senior Day is the day high school seniors get to come to the University for a preview of what they're in for next year. The various colleges on campus offer special exhibits and displays, and at night the seniors are treated to a football game as guests of the University.

Snow

Tucson is one of the few places where you can swim in the morning and snow ski in the afternoon. Of course, this is a good way to catch pneumonia. Mt. Lemmon may not equal the Alps as far as the slopes go, but it's just as easy to break your leg on Lemmon as it is anywhere else — like even on the Mall!

Speakers

Picketers didn't let Rockefeller forget Attica, although he had a good many supporters on campus; the audience laughed along with Dick Gregory's humor, and everyone listened to what Masters and Johnson had to say. These and other speakers created an influx of opinion that was of value because it forced students to consider and evaluate the merits of their own opinions.

Sunday Evening

Ever had the desire to spend a Sunday doing something besides sleeping and watching football games? Probably not, but the Sunday Evening Forum, sponsored by Catalina Methodist Church, offers an assortment of debates, films and lectures on everything from Micronesia to China and the Middle East to the Fabled Seas of Italy.

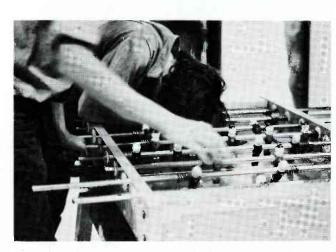

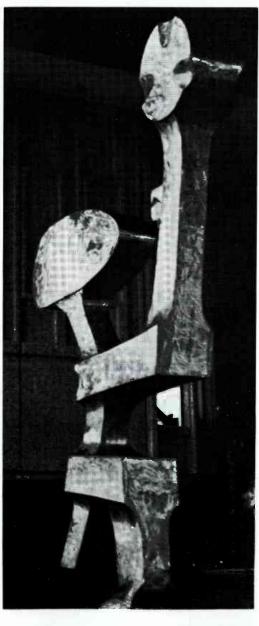

Student Union

The Student Union is to the University of Arizona what "headquarters" is to the Police Department. The Union offers several eating places, lounges and meeting rooms, a theatre, a post office, a photo service, the Games Room with its endless pool tables and pinball machines, the Bookstore, a checkcashing service, the nightclub atmosphere of the Cellar, a collection of momentos from the U.S.S. Arizona, the offices of the Arizona Daily Wildcat, Desert/74 yearbook and Student Union Activities Board (which sponsors all kinds of weird things), a swimming pool, an information counter where you can get magazines and cigarettes and candy as well as information, Switchboard, a magazine and newspaper reading area, numerous pay telephones what was the U of A like before they built this place?

Travel

Moving thousands of students between home and campus, from campus to Europe or Hawaii and back again, is no easy task. But the Student Union Travel Center does a good job working to move us through regularly scheduled carriers and special charters they sponsor. A Trans World Airlines employees' union strike put a real fly in this past Christmas' travel ointment, with nearly 900 students having to scramble for secondary transit when five charter flights were cancelled. Way to go TWA! Note the happy faces in the crowd . . .

Tucson

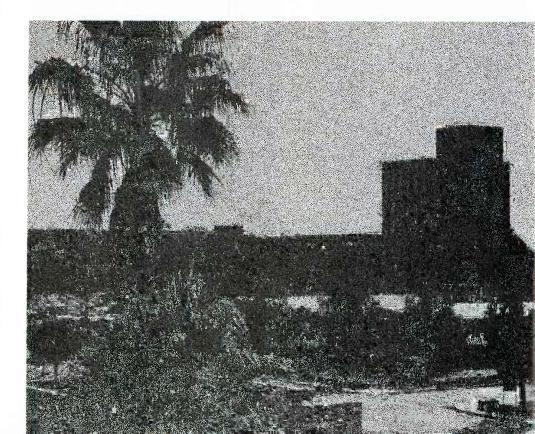

As one student put it, "Tucson is the biggest small town around." From the cluttered neon madness of Speedway Boulevard to the serenity of the desert near old Tucson, the city is indeed big and growing. To an out-of-stater, the airport is the first place he/she sees in Tucson. The signs say, "Bienvenidos a Tucson — Welcome to Tucson" and they are only the first indicators of the friendliness that is everywhere in the city.

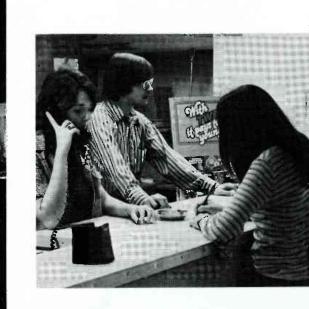

With acre after acre of red-brick buildings, palm trees and beautiful climate, thousands of tanned students, it's easy to live a hedonistic life-style at the U of A. But it also is a place for serious study and thoughts of the future, with 30,000 different people each trying to figure out what life means.

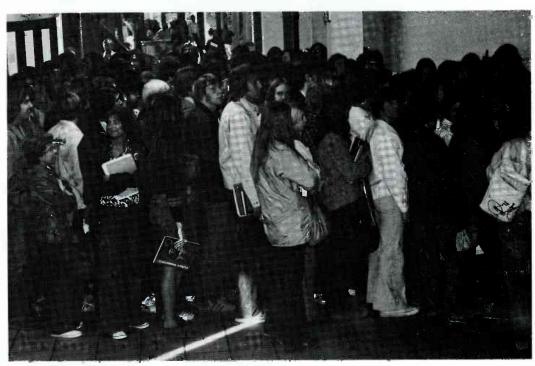

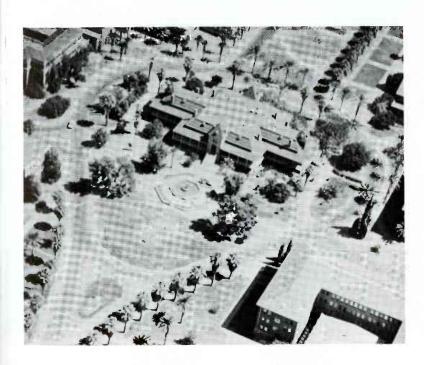

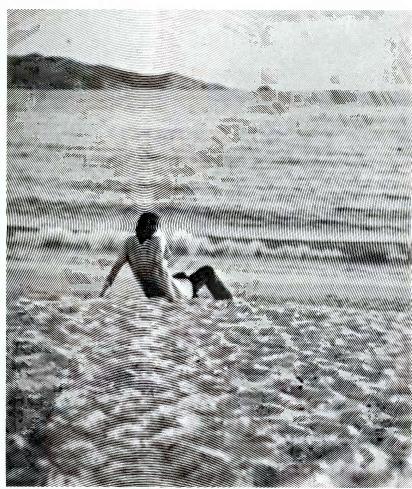

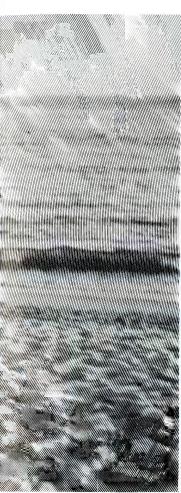

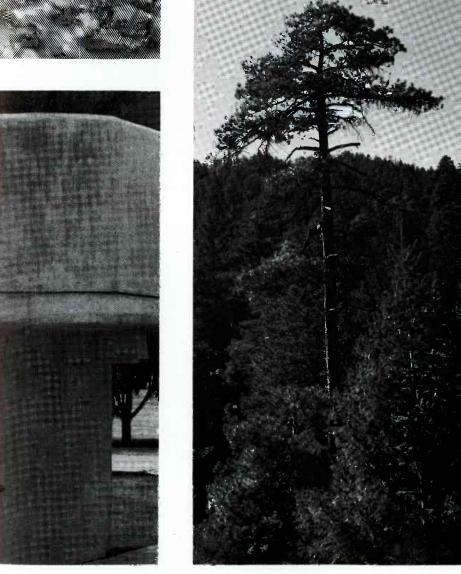

Vacations

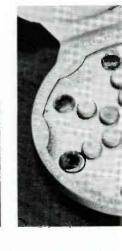

Journey to Mexico and peek into another world, go to Disneyland and play in fantasy-land for awhile, hike through the carved beauty of the Grand Canyon — vacation time is a time to see what worlds exist outside of your world. If you happen to be stuck in town during a vacation: motorcycling, listening to music, jogging, kicking the pinball machines in the Games Room, stepping on cockroaches — leisure time is time for whatever turns you on when the books are put away.

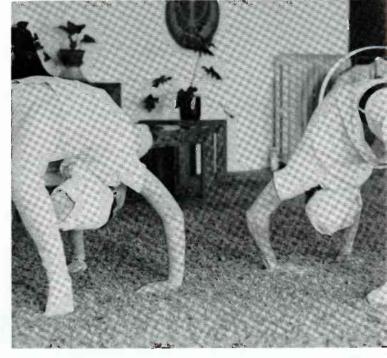

Wildcat

In case anybody hasn't had it pounded into his head enough, the U of A is Wildcat Country. You don't have to put on any funny costume to prove that you're a Wildcat. In fact, all you have to do is pay your tuition. But a little school spirit also helps.

GALLAGHER THEATER

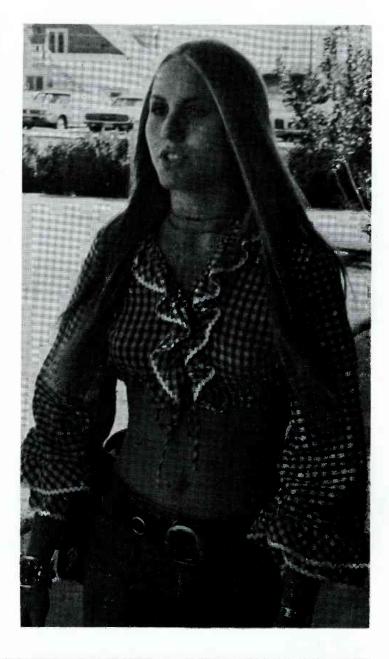

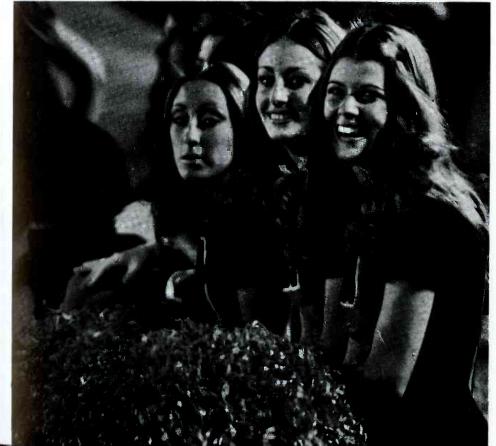

Women

Women have gotten fed up with lower pay and second-class positions. And even within the male-chauvinistic fortress known as the U of A cries of equality are being heard. But U of A women are still, nevertheless, recognized as being unique.

X-Rated

Although Linda Lovelace has yet to appear on the silver screen on campus, the Gallagher has shown a few X-rated films — so things may be looking up.

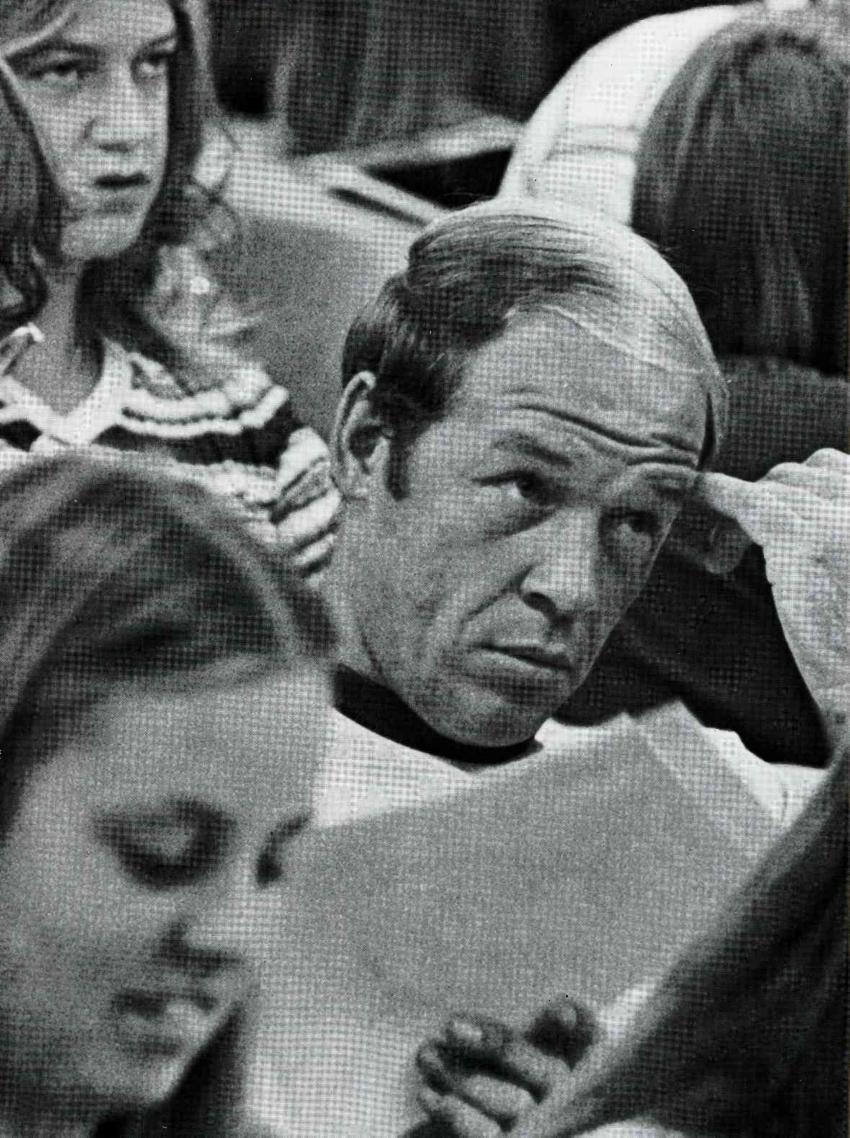

Yoga

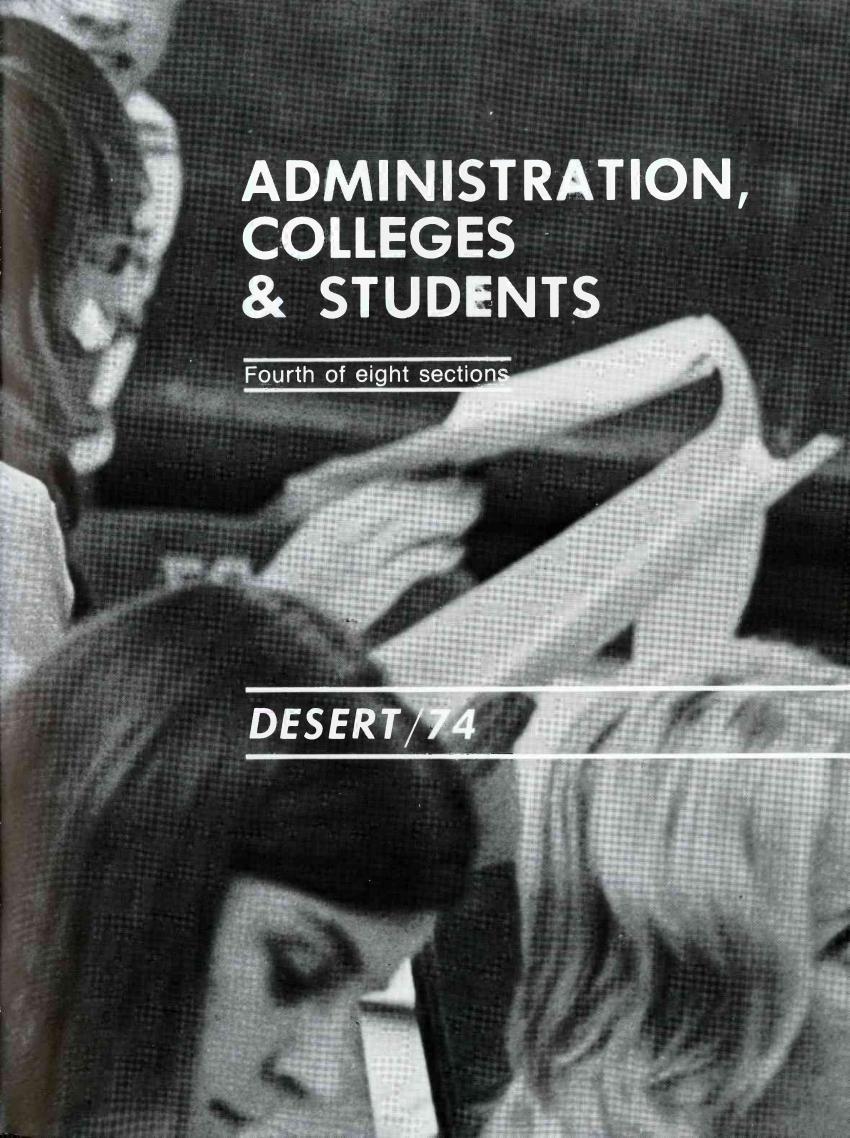

It has a different meaning for different people. Yoga is a combination of things, including Hindu theistic philosophy teachings and a system of exercising for control and liberation. Performed, taught and experienced in a variety of ways and places — both near and distant from campus — it's there for the experiencing.

Zero Population

What Planned Parenthood and the 'pill' haven't been able to put asunder, this radi-lib group is striving to achieve. Organized religion doesn't seem to be too happy about it!

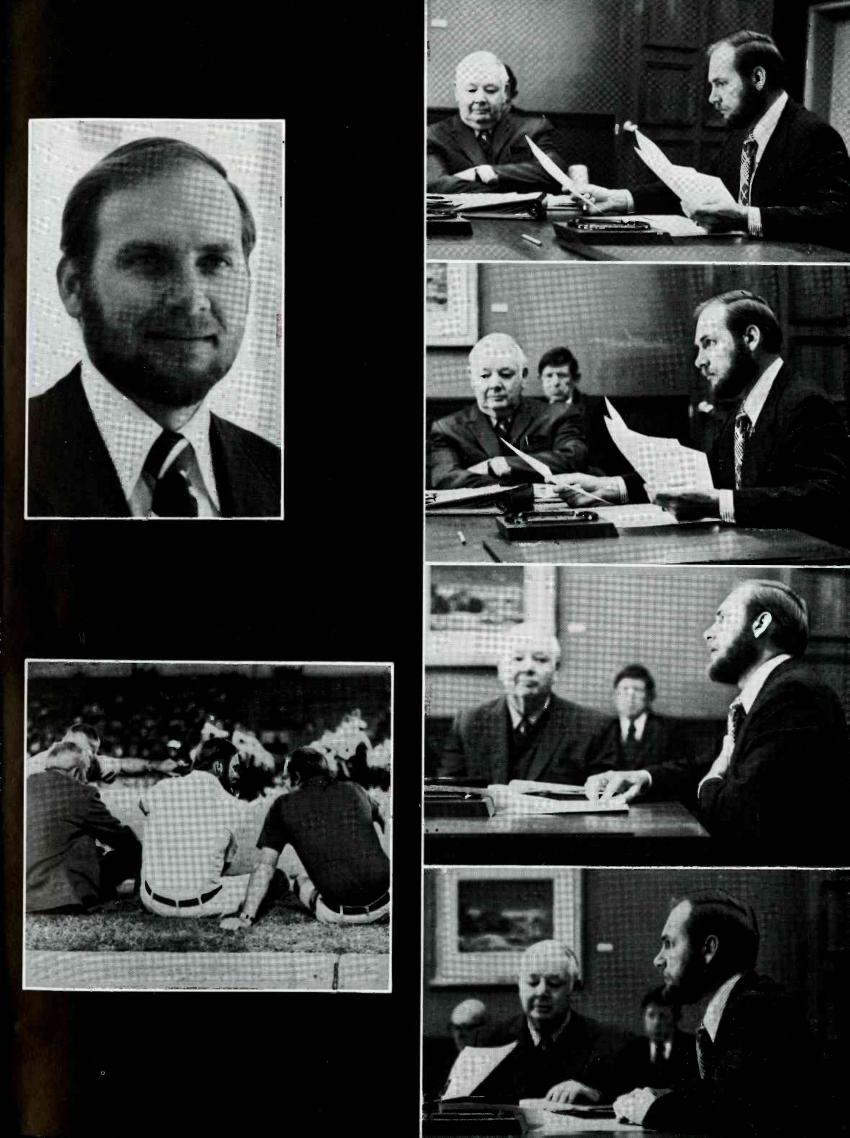

"The goal that the University must always strive for is knowledge and the wisdom to use it well. We must not be satisfied with anything less than excellence in our teaching efforts, our research programs or our service to the community."

ADMINISTRATIVE DEANS

The office of the Dean of Students primarily is responsible for administering and coordinating student services; and representing student interests to various campus groups, faculty, staff and administration.

Robert S. Svob Dean of Students

The University's emphasis this year was on its quest for excellence. Already a good institution, it stands at the very threshold of greatness. With the combined help of us all, it can become one of the handful of truly distinguished land-grant universities in the nation.

Dr. F. Pendleton Gaines Dean of Administration

The Department of Admissions and Records is responsible for all undergraduate admissions to the University, including determining the acceptance of transfer courses. Further, this department conducts registration each semester and Summer term, maintains all student academic records, checks the records of degree candidates and certifies students for graduation, issues them their diplomas and prepares the transcrips of students' U of A records. The department also is responsible for the class schedule.

David L. Windsor Dean of Admissions & Records

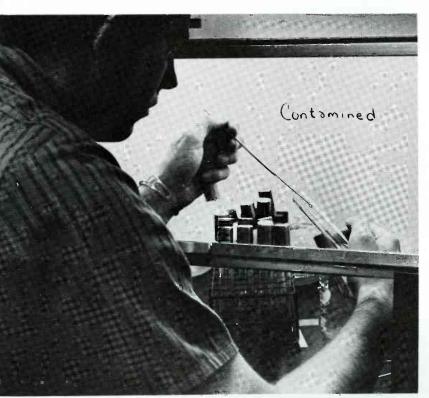

COLLEGES

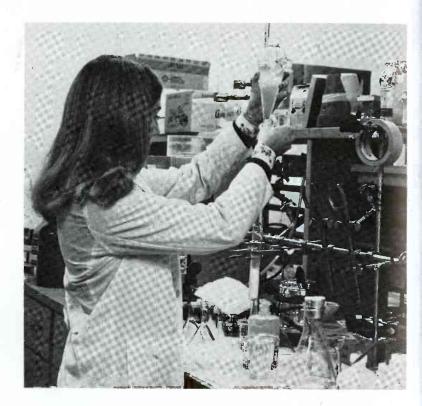

The College of Agriculture provides education, research, and extension service in relation to land resources of Arizona. Emphasis upon the agricultural lands, range lands, forests and watersheds includes work in renewable natural resources management, environmental quality, outdoor recreation, ecosystem analysis and regional planning and design. The human environment is stressed in Home Economics through focus on nutrition, family and child development, clothing, interior design and merchandising.

Dr. Gerald R. Stairs
Dean

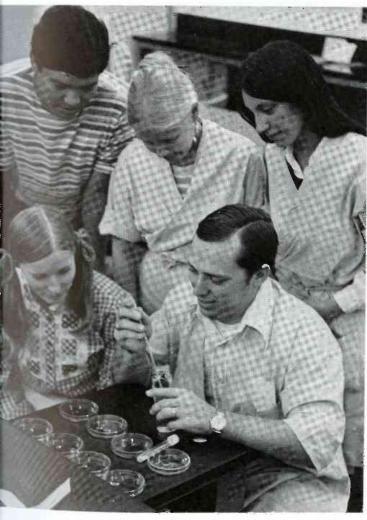

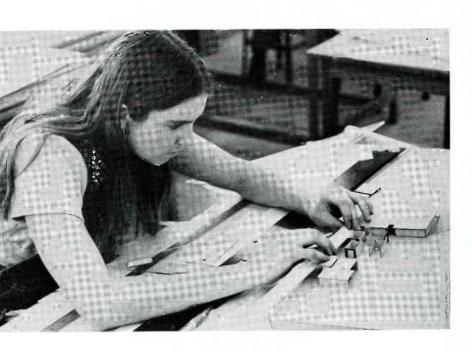

ARCHITECTURE

The College of Architecture's programs center on the design studio learning experience. Design is combined with the professional studies in architectural history, theory, technologies, communication skills and general education to prepare students for an increasing variety of environmental design challenges in architecture.

The goals of the college are to train students in the earth sciences, which deal with water, mineral resources, fuels and the environment, and to seek new knowledge, both basic and applied, of the earth's dynamic structure, from its core to its surface.

EARTH SCIENCES

EDUCATION

The College of Education is comprised of ten departments within three major divisions of instruction: teacher education, the graduate library school, and development of those rehabilitation programs which do not neglect the importance of physical rehabilitation but which stress educational and psychological needs of persons desiring to re-enter the world of work with health and/or problems.

ENGINEERING

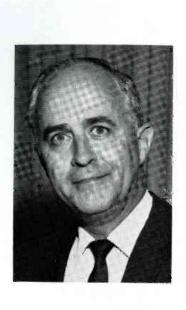

The Engineering College is a professional school. The essence of its task is to improve the art and science of engineering while educating improved practitioners.

Dr. Walter J. Fahey Dean

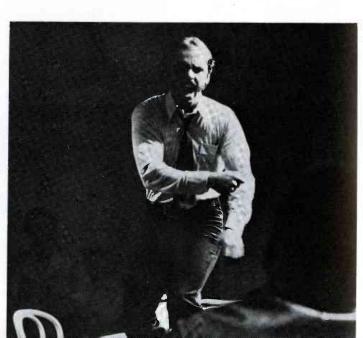

The purposes of the Fine Arts college are manifold. They include professional and avocational training, public service, the creation of a campus and community environment which lifts people above the mundane experience of ordinary existence, and expansion of knowledge and awareness of the arts through the creative, performing and research activities of the faculty.

Dr. Robert L. Hull Dean

LIBERAL ARTS

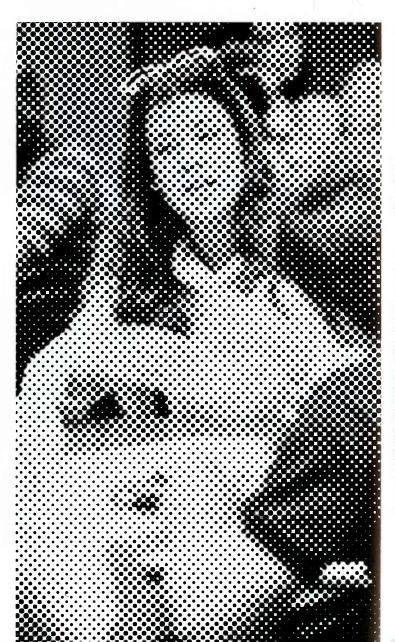

The goal of the college is to develop people who are informed and enlightened-persons who, because they have wisdom and perspective, create meaning for their lives. The pedagogic plan of the College of Liberal Arts is to expose the student to the knowledge, methodology and theory in the areas of natural science, social science and humanities, with the opportunity to study one discipline in depth.

MEDICINE

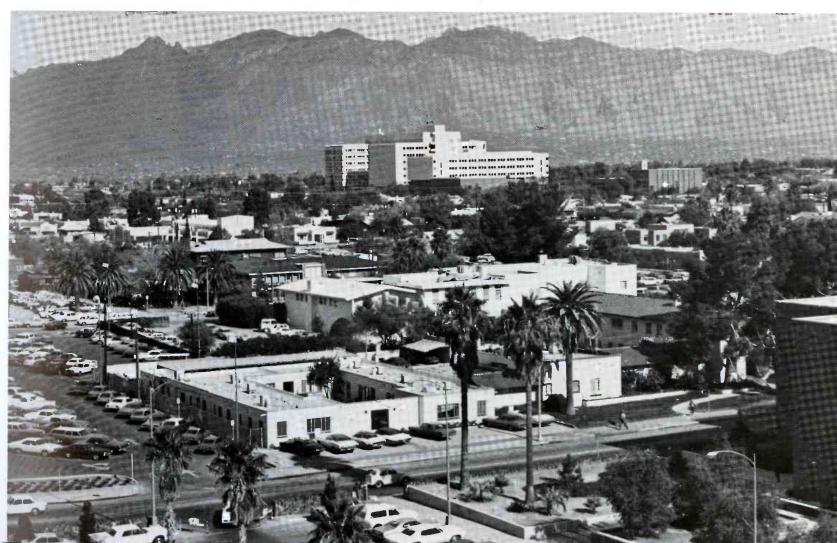

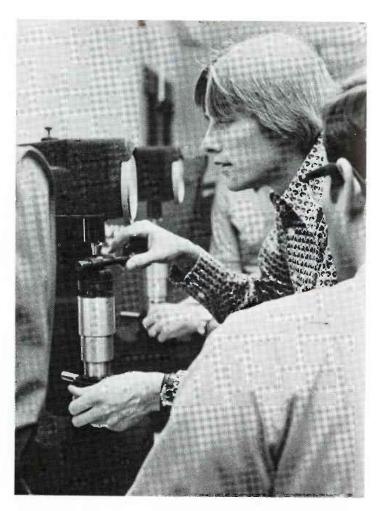

MINES

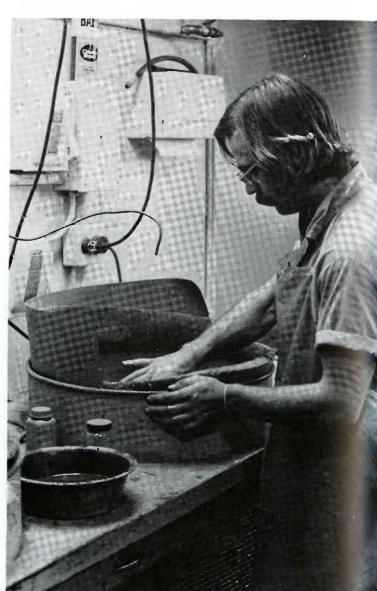

The College of Mines seeks to teach and to further the arts and sciences employed to recover the earth's mineral and fuel resources and to convert them into useful products. Minerals and fuels are the sources of the materials and energy man has used to build this world. They are the basis of civilization and essential to the continuance of life as we know it.

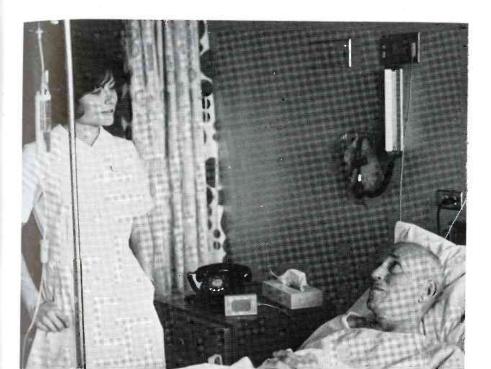

Dr. William H. Dresher Dean

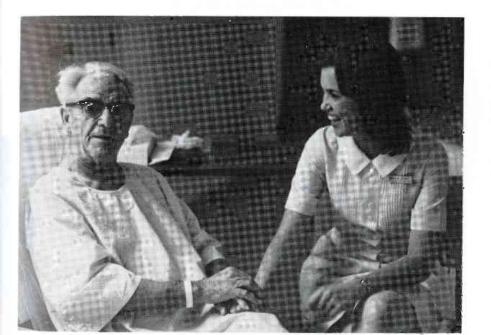

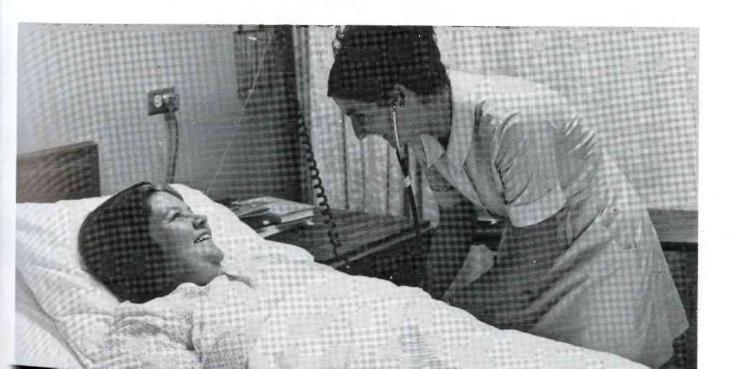

NURSING

Through related courses and nursing course activities the College of Nursing prepares the graduate to function as a professional nurse wherever skilled nursing services are needed.

Dr. Gladys Sorensen Dean

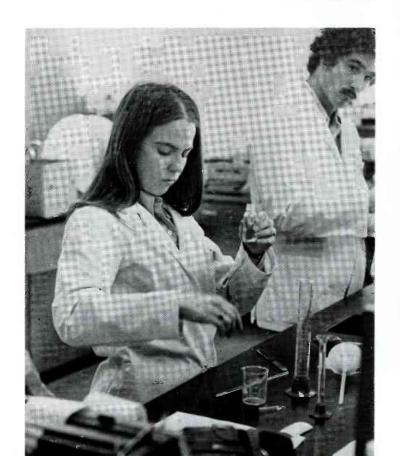

Put together two instructional departments, Pharmaceutical Sciences and Pharmacology & Toxicology; blend them with the assistance of an administrative department; nurture them with the loyal support of a great body of pharmacists throughout the entire state; challenge them with an ambitious cluster of students, and energize them with a battery of research and service projects and you have the prescription for the compounding of the University of Arizona College of Pharmacy.

ATHLETICS

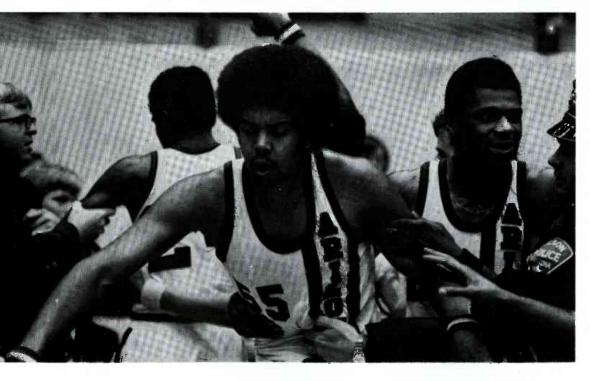

Fifth of eight sections

DESERT/74

Sport is balance. A swirling blend of illusion and reality, sport can easily become a dream-filled fantasy world, and then suddenly, with even less effort, transform itself into a harsh world riveted with hate and mistrust.

Success and failure, winning and losing, are equal partners whose mysterious bond enables them to invade both worlds at will, and sometimes without warning.

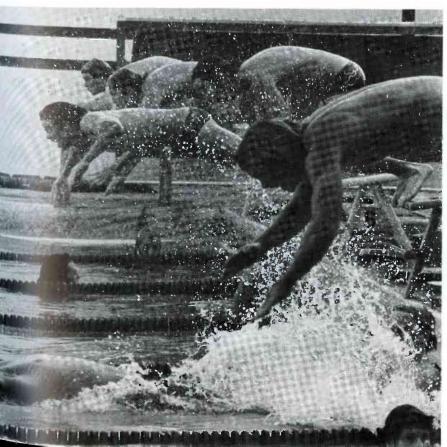

This is the shadowy realm the athlete is thrust into; and it is only his competitiveness that forces the growth of self-awareness, the pursuit of perfection and, ultimately, leads him to embrace the experiences of life itself.

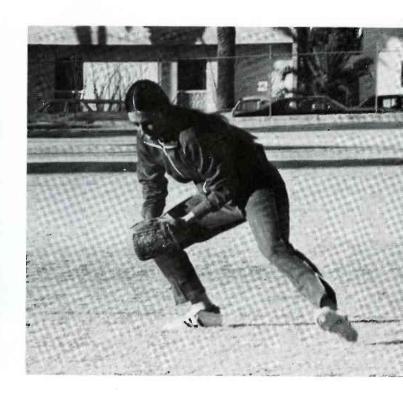

This section is an attempt to playback the emotions in sport — its realities and fantasies.

For the first time in University of Arizona history, the women's sports program received financial aid from student activity fees. The controversial issue of athletic scholarships for women was settled by a vote of the Board of Regents to allocate funds for 15 such scholarships per year to each of the state's three universities.

Turning to the lighter side of events, the Wildcat football team not only played under a new coach, but also sported new uniforms. The recently adopted U of A emblem was painted brightly in red on the sides of their helmets.

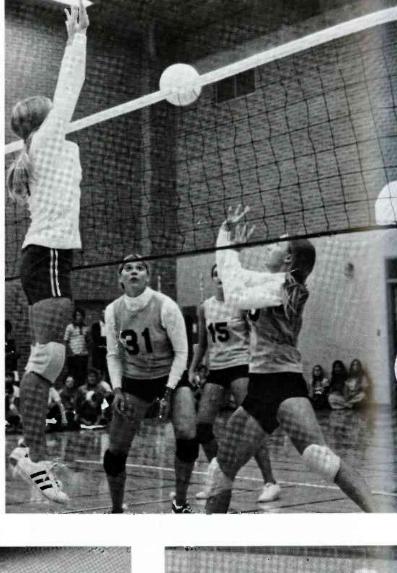

The McKale Memorial Center was officially dedicated, and new, lighted tennis courts graced the southeast corner of the campus.

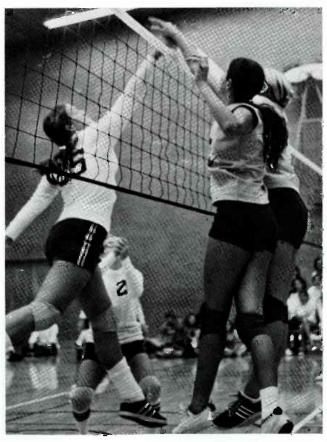

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

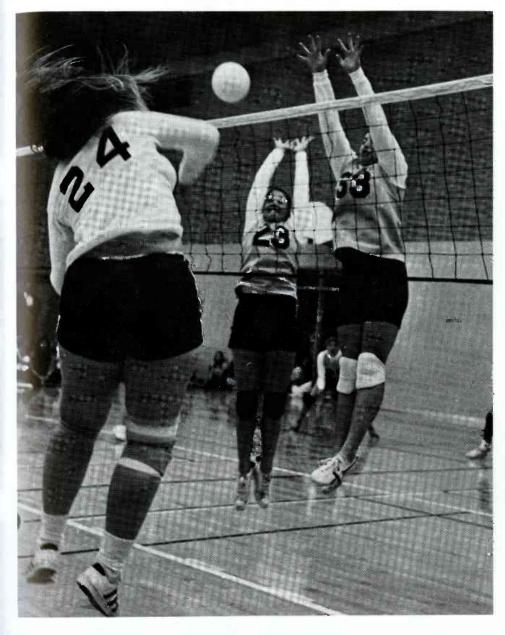

Unable to register a victory over up-state rival Arizona State University, the women's volleyball team wound up in second place in District 7 of the Intermountain Conference.

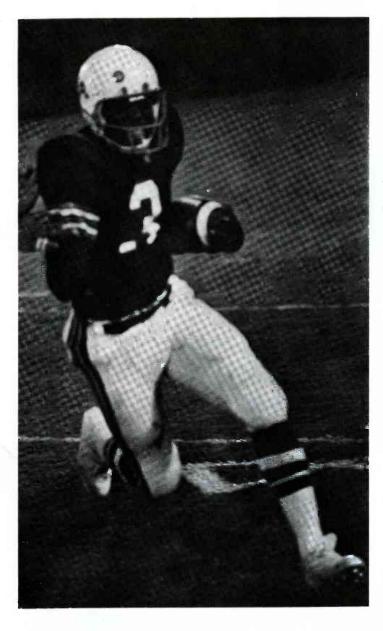

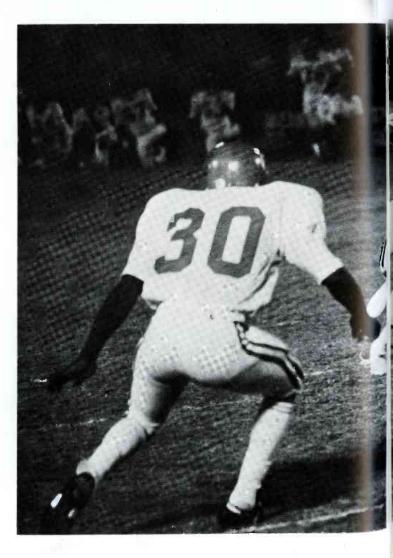

WILDCAT

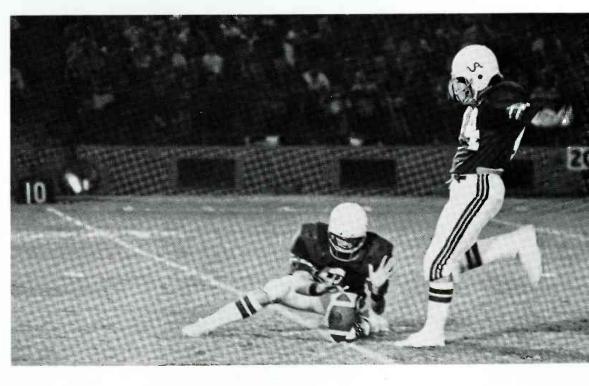

Under the guidance of rookie head coach Jim Young, the Wildcat football team experienced its first winning season since 1968. Posting an 8-3 record, the 'Cats finished in a first-place tie with Arizona State for the WAC title. Despite a 55-19 loss to the Sun Devils, victories over Utah, Illinois (Big 10 Conference), and Iowa (Big 8 Conference) highlighted the football team's schedule.

CROSS COUNTRY · FIELD HOCKEY

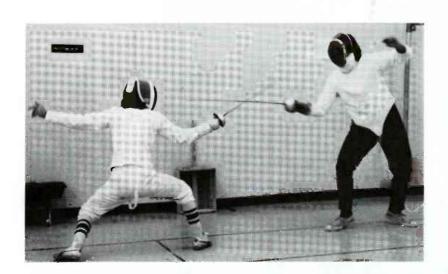

Coach Linda Ebright's field hockey team put together a 5-2-2 season enroute to a second place finish behind Mesa Community College in the state tournament.

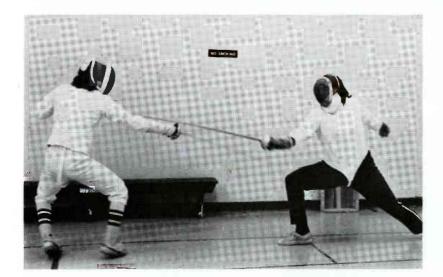

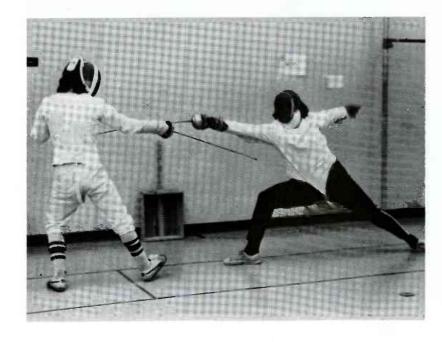

Led by the record-setting performances of Ed Mendoza, the Cross Country team finished its WAC season in second place. Mendoza shattered six consecutive course records and was named to the All-American team for his efforts.

FENCING · SOCCER · WATER POLO

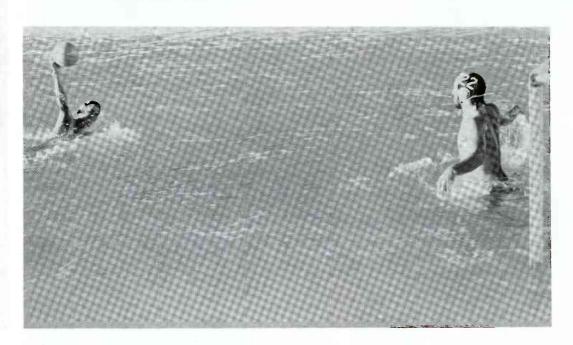

Although a major sport throughout most of the world, soccer enjoys little support from the University community. Nevertheless, the team competed regionally in a league which included Northern Arizona University and ASU.

The year 1973-74 was an experimental one in United States fencing competition. Besides the usual foil fencing, ladies also were allowed to compete in épée and saber bouts. The co-ed fencing team, coached by Carol Johnson, entered 15 tournaments, including the University of California at San Diego Collegiate Open.

Arizona's water polo team, led by last year's All-WAC selections, David Kintas and Karl Utzinger, hoped to be a strong conference contender. The squad suffered two early losses to Brigham Young University and the University of Wyoming, but managed to record a 13-3 victory over ASU.

WRESTLING

Coach Bill Nelson's grapplers got the 1974 season underway in fine fashion capturing first place in the Sun Devil Invitational Tournament. Team standouts were Jim Davis, John Hanshaw and Ed Torrejon.

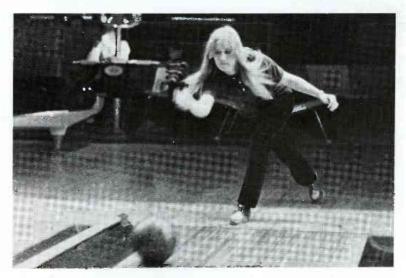

ARCHERY BADMINTON BOWLING

The women's and men's badminton teams competed interscholastically and in open tournaments, while the co-ed bowling team traveled to Las Vegas for a weekend invitational in January.

Competing in both indoor and outdoor matches, the co-ed archery team sponsored an invitational tournament in October.

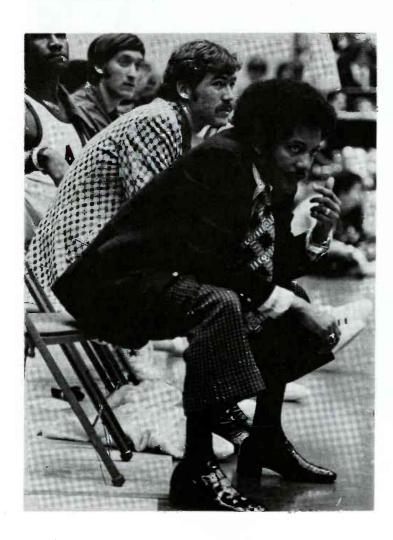

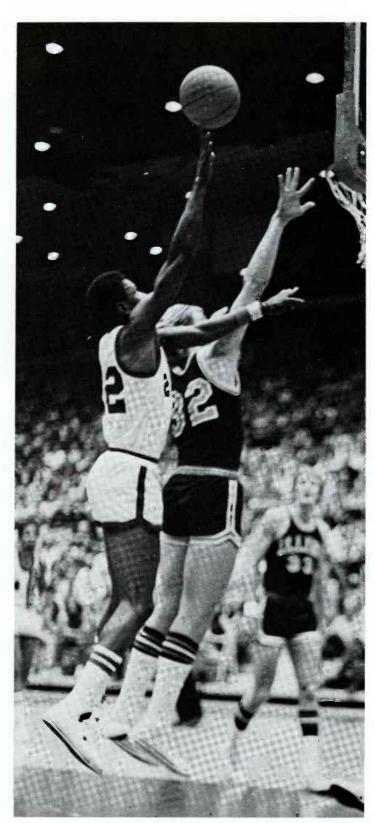

U of A BASKETBALL The Big Men

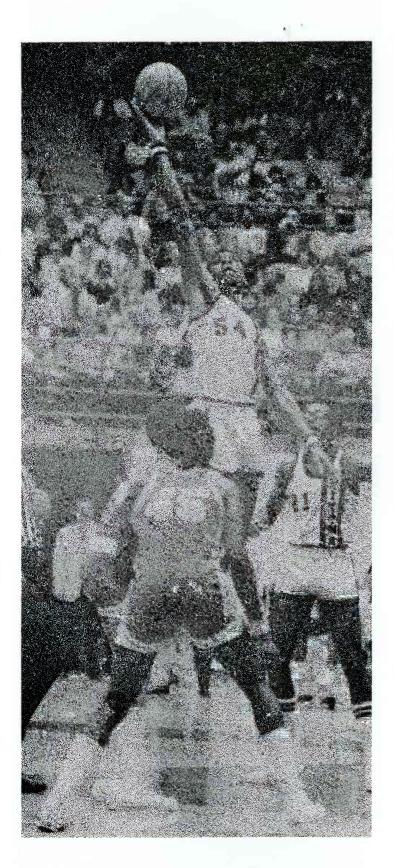

They called it the "Year of the Fox" and it began as though it would be. SPORTS ILLUSTRATED magazine ranked the 'Cats ninth in the nation in its pre-season poll of college powerhouses. The squad figured to capture the Western Athletic Conference crown and improve on last year's second place finish.

After an early season loss to Colorado State University, it seemed almost as though the "Year of the Fox" might dissolve into a year of false illusions, but coach Fred Snowden's cagers pulled together mid-way through the season to hand ASU a 98-90 decision and remain in contention 'till the end.

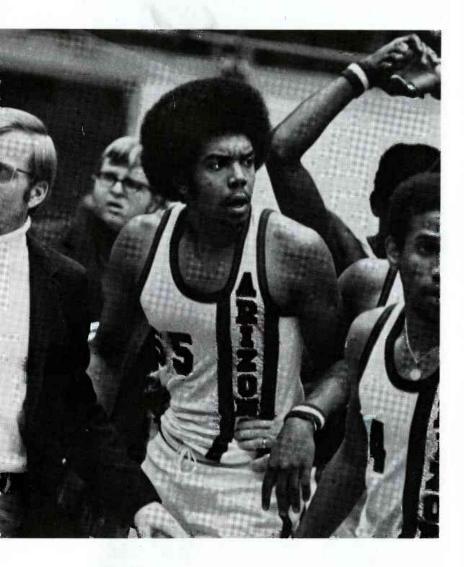

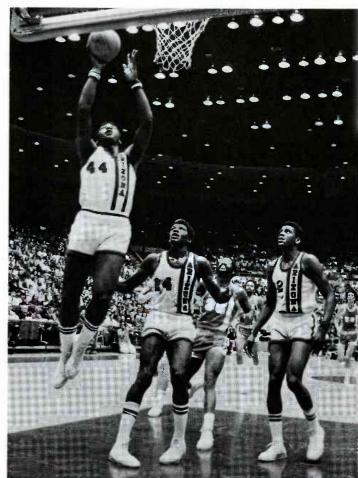

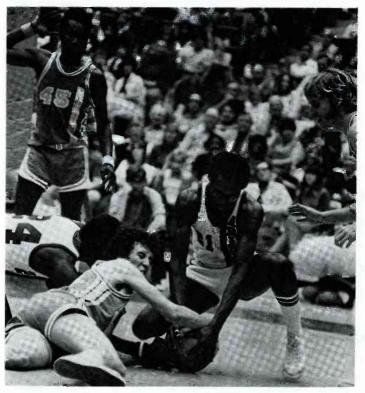

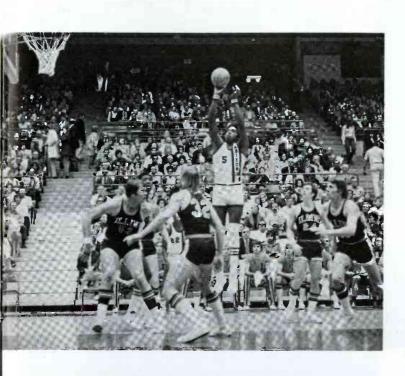

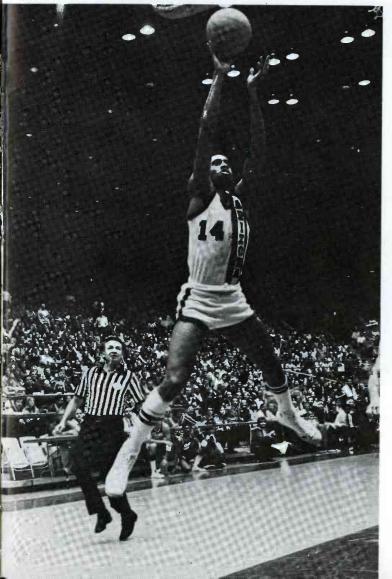

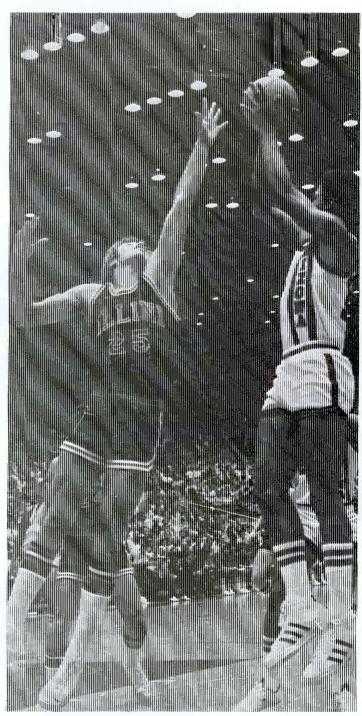

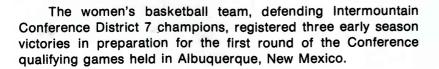

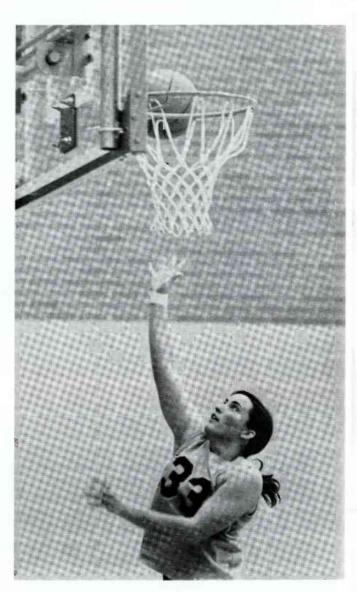

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

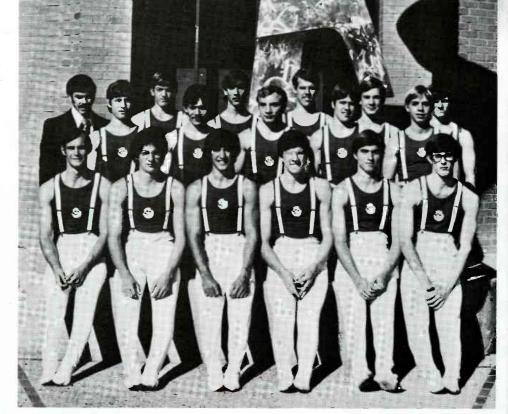

MEN'S INTRAMURAL BASKETBALL

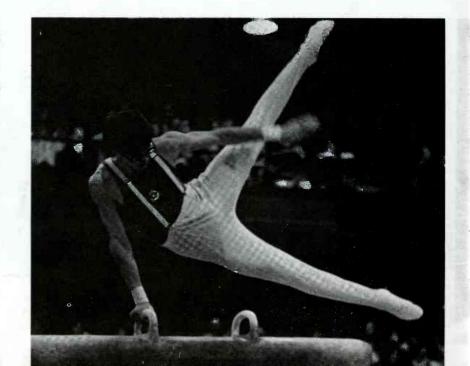

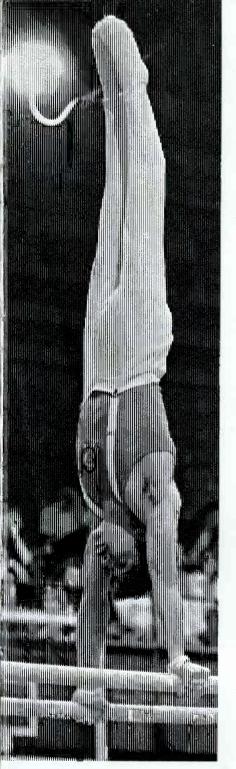

MEN'S GYMNASTICS

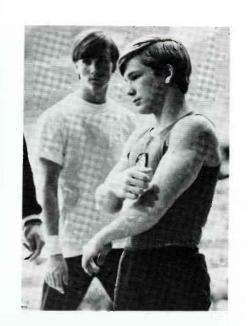

While the basketball team was christening the recently-completed McKale Center, Coach Jeff Bennon's gymnastics team found itself in command of Bear Down Gym.

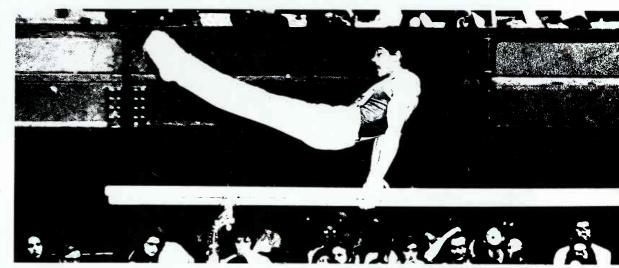

The team prefaced its WAC season with two invitational tournaments and nine dual meets.

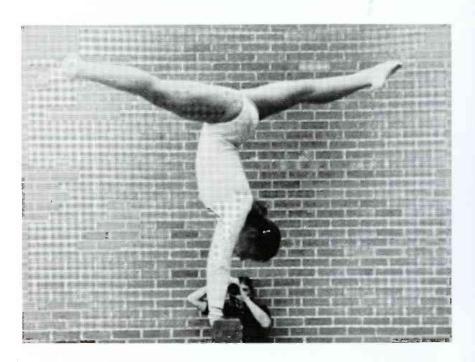

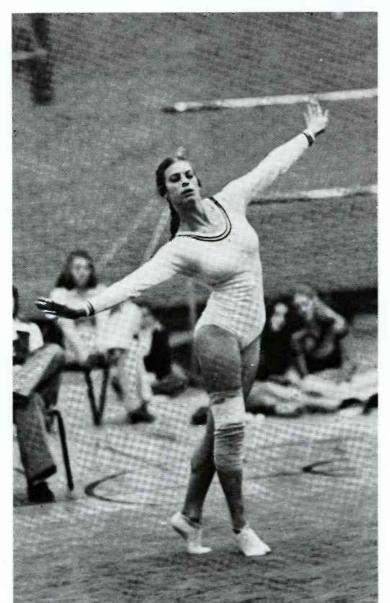

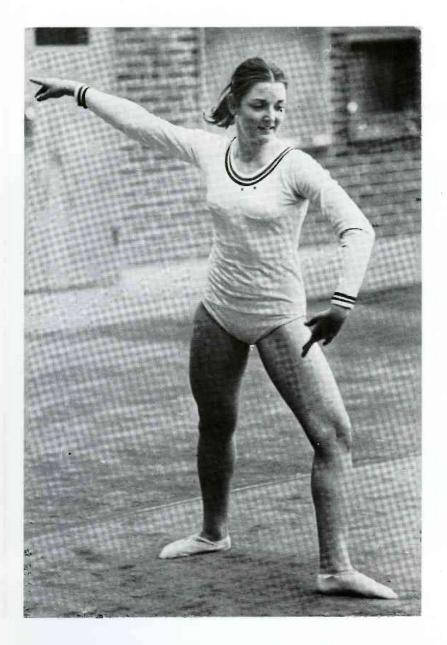

WOMEN'S GYMNASTICS

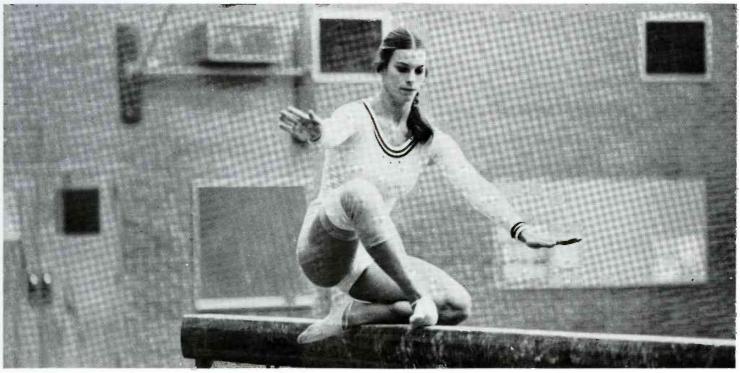

With the help of new coach, Cheryll Hill, the women's gymnastics team sought to defend its Intermountain Conference title for the third straight year.

SWIMMING * Men's, Women's, Synchronized

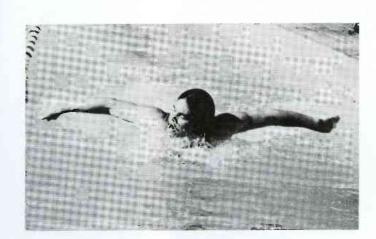

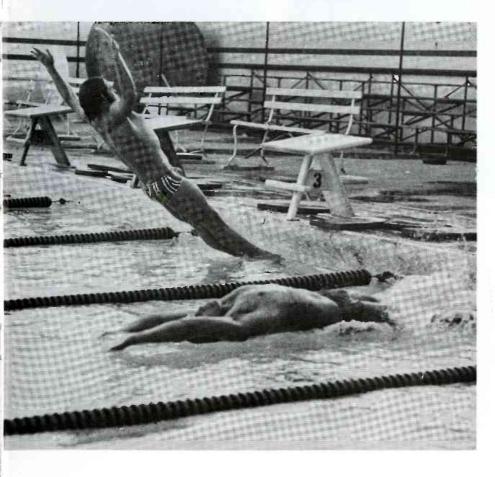

166

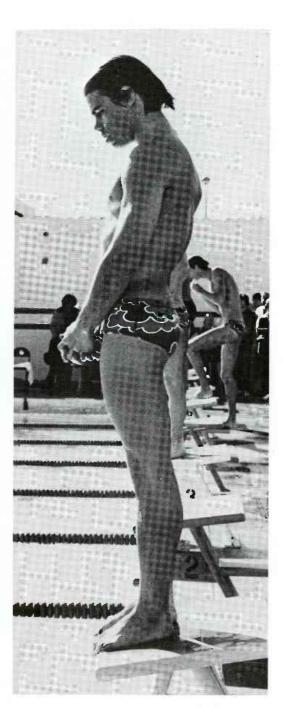

After recording 49 points to Arizona State's 46, the Wildcat swimmers hit the road for the remainder of the '74 season.

The women's swimming team, bolstered by standout swimmer Jill Strong, also worked to unseat the Sun Devils and become recognized nationally.

Synchronized swimming, highly popular in California, was just getting off the ground in Arizona. The group performed a competitive as well as an exhibition schedule.

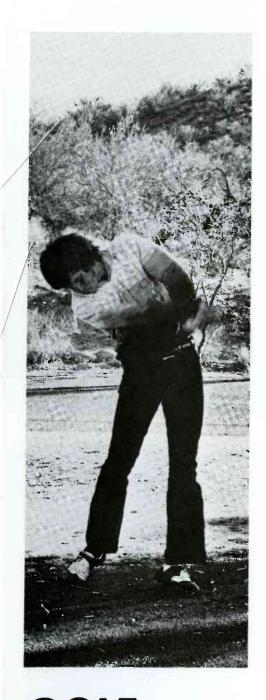

Coached by John Gibson, the golf team shot practice rounds at Oro Valley Country Club in preparation for the opening of its Spring season.

opening of its Spring season.

Paced by golfers Paula Eger and Terry Smith, the women's team looked to better last year's fourth place NCAA finish.

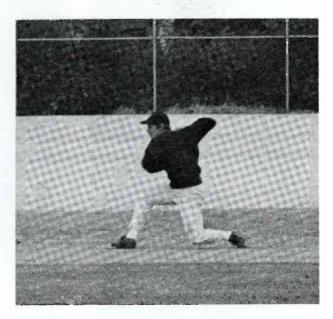

GOLF Men's, Women's

WILDCAT BASEBALL

Aided by a strong pitching corps, the University of Arizona baseball team hoped to brighten its 65th season by bettering last year's second-place finish in the Southern Division of the WAC.

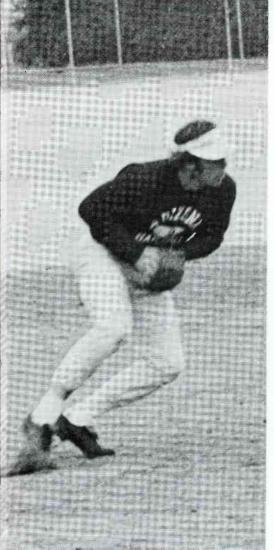

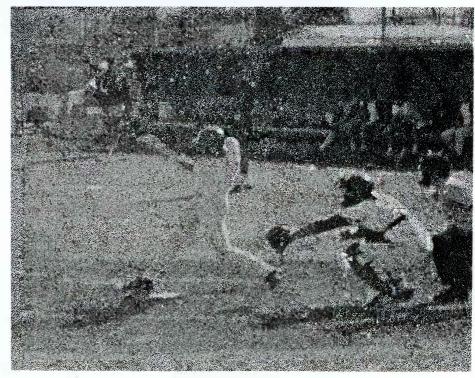

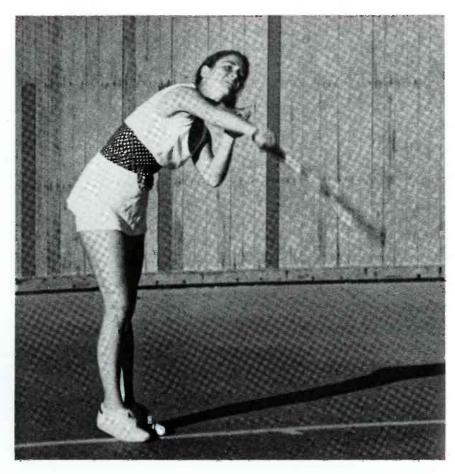

TENNIS

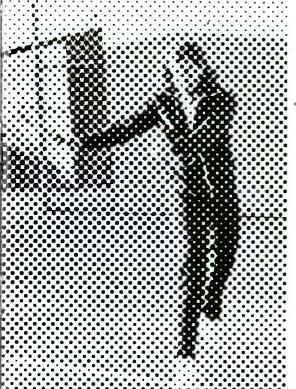

Men's, Women's

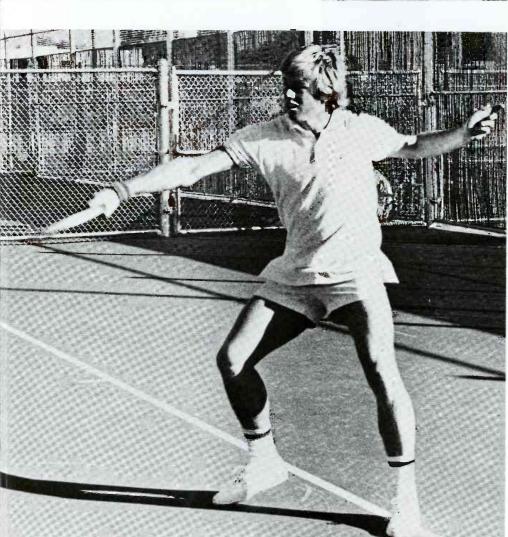

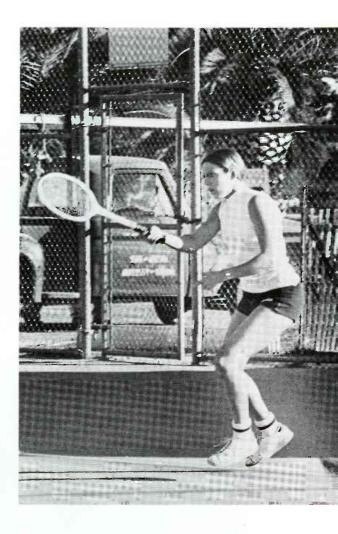

The year 1974 marked the first occasion the women's tennis team competed interscholastically for the University. Prior to this season, the team participated independently in open tournaments only.

The men's team viewed '74 as the year in which to defend its first-place WAC title.

The image of the University's Greek system, sororities and fraternities alike, is changing for the better. And much of this change is due to the efforts and activities of both the Panhellenic Association and the Interfranternity Council. These are the co-ordinating bodies of the 27 social Greek organizations on campus. Selected/elected representatives serve their respective legislative bodies to plan and organize directions for campus and community projects, to update the traditional visions of and attitudes toward Greeks, and to focus on problems facing the system and work out solutions. Both organizations have as their goals: SCHOLARSHIP, SERVICE, LEADERSHIP and FRIENDSHIP. And, working toward them, the Greeks sponsor philanthropic projects throughout the year—such as the profitable Rummage Sale for Camp Wildcat. Extensive participation in Homecoming and Greek Week festivities is traditional, as is involvement in the Fall and Spring membership recruitment programs and high school, community and alumni relations activity.

AAM

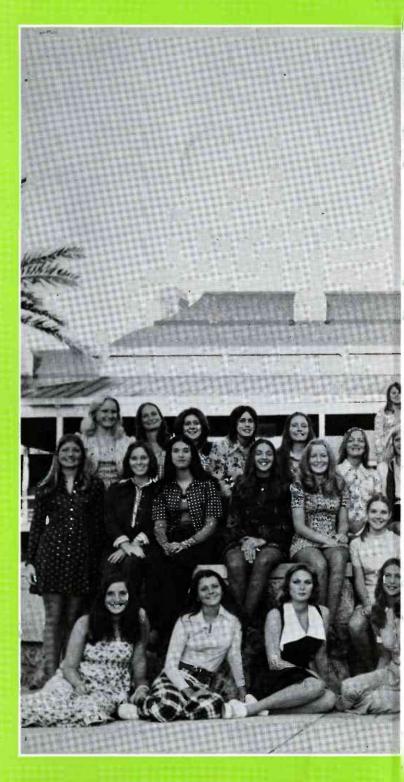

The first sorority ever founded was Alpha Delta Pi, and the sisterhood has not lost its sparkle as it finishes another successful year.

Besides the friendship found at Alpha Delta Pi, a great amount of importance has been placed on our philanthropy projects.

Among the projects this year have been a booth set up at the Balls D'art Society fair; collecting aluminum cans around campus and sponsoring the 125 Mile Run to Phoenix for Muscular Dystrophy.

Alpha Delta Pi's sponsored their annual Tandem Race for all the houses in October and organized various parties throughout the year. Whether it was meetings, the Christmas Formal or just a gathering with friends and music, the Alpha Delta Pi's continued to have just a plain good time this year.

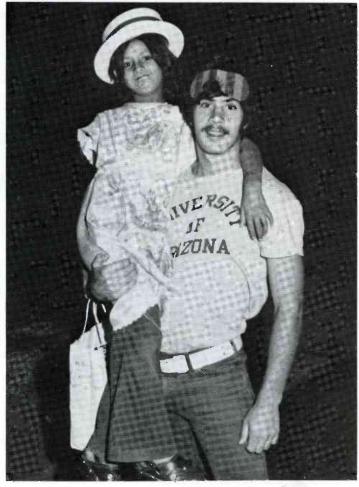

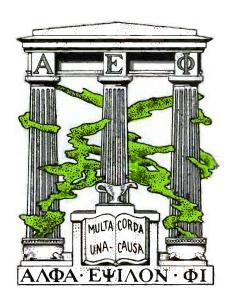

Alpha Epsilon Pi strives to create an environment where all can grow together intellectually, physically and socially. The AEPi men have been in the top three academically among fraternities. Socially, they are renowned on campus for their Spring Shipwreck Party, as well as other social functions including a Valentine's Party, Hayride Party, Paper Party, Homecoming festivities, horseback riding and the weekend Winter Formal.

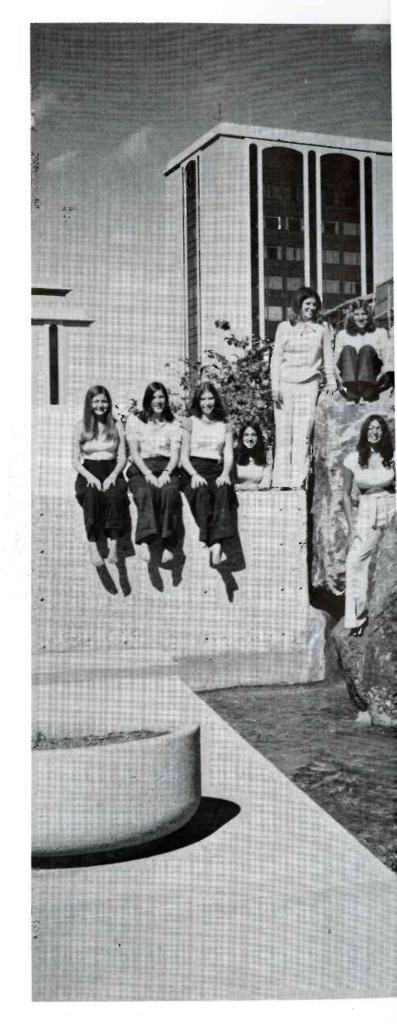

Their participation in intramural sports led them to finish in the top ten for the 1973 school year. Being community service minded, AEPi brothers have helped underprivileged children and in the paper and can recycling movement. The members of Alpha Epsilon Pi are well diversified in their interests and activities around campus, having many men in scholastic, social and extracurricular honorary fraternities—including its share of Phi Beta Kappa graduates each year.

ABO

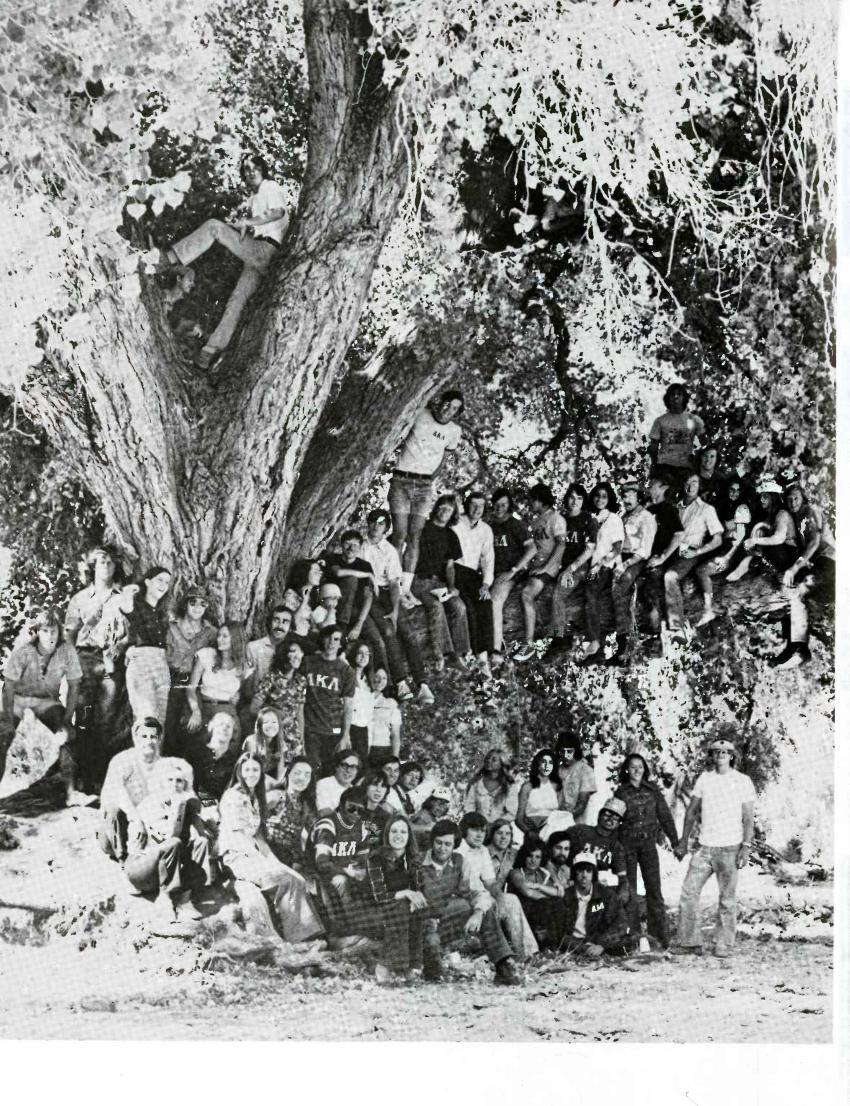

Alpha Epsilon Phi's annual activities are many—highlighted by the deliciously traditional Banana Split Sale, UNICEF drive at Halloween, Pajama Party, Roller Skating Party, formals and Camp Arrowhead, our philanthropy.

The Alpha Epsilon Phi's also take part in many other campus activities, including Camp Wildcat, Delta Psi Kappa, Spurs, Wranglers, fraternity little sister auxiliaries, W.R.A. and Pom Pon squad.

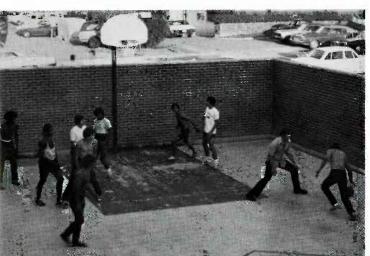

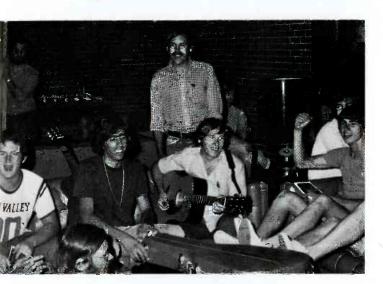

Alpha Kappa Lambda, a 60-man house, has been a virtual source of activity over the last two semesters. With its membership moving comfortably above budget, AKL has been treated to an enjoyable and socially eventful year. The major parties have been those traditional favorites. At Homecoming was Satan-Sin-In, the pledge planned paper-mached, coma juiced cavern of fun with the usual (but ever-changing) maze. Along with the other after-game parties the Fall calendar was filled. The Christmas Formal held at the Mt. Lemmon Inn was something to be remembered—luckily there was a chartered bus! The Spring semester was equally as busy.

After initiating the Fall pledge class and doubling the auxiliary, Alethia Kai, there was Greek Week, the traditional Baghdad Bash and the Spring Formal. The year was dotted not only with social events, but with varying projects ranging from the Camp Wildcat rummage sale to an all-house retreat. Perhaps it was in the retreat that Alpha Kappa Lambda found its real motivation for the year. That is, remembering the spirit of brotherhood that cannot yield, will not yield, to the materialism of the day. AKL stands apart, and stands proudly.

Chi Omega is very active in the community as well as on campus. At Halloween they hosted a party for the mentally retarded children of the Southern Arizona Training Program at Tucson. Chi Omegas entertained the boys at the Arizona Youth Center twice during the year with parties and dances. Easter brought their annual Easter Kindness Project, where they sponsor a traditional egg hunt for the University Day Care Center. Through the course of the year, Chi O's collected newspapers and contributed them to Meals on Wheels.

ng,

Throughout the year, the Delta Gamma's were busy with many diverse activities. Not only with their social interests, but with their philanthropy. Each year, in the Spring, the DG's throw a big benefit dance for the Blind Foundation. At Halloween and Easter, children from the Arizona State School for the Blind are entertained at the house with parties and gifts. This year, the DG's were paired with the Sig Eps for Homecoming decorations. The Delta Gamma girls also have become active in women's intramural sports during 1973-74, with winning teams in volleyball, powder puff football and several other sports. DG's also were team members in the UA vs ASU powder puff football game.

This year, the Delta Zeta sorority helped the deaf and blind children of Tucson as their philanthropy project. And traditionally, they had their annual Spring and Winter formals. Among the other social activities was the Halloween Costume Party, where pledges and alum moms carved pumpkins and serenaded other sororities while presenting them with the pumpkins. During the Spring the activities were victorious over the pledges in this year's softball game and took the pledges on a retreat. Regular trips to Farrell's Ice Cream Parlour helped the DZ's finish off the year!

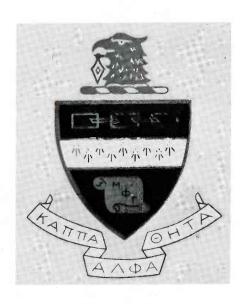

For Gamma Phi Beta, the Carnival Rush Party attracted 33 pledges who, when later presented, promptly 'walked-out' to Prescott-taking along three actives! Luckily, they all were back in time to have a "hee haw" time at the Old Tucson Western Party. Once recovered, the attention soon focused on "Wildcat Graffiti" and decorating the Gamma Phi house with the Fijis. A short breather was taken before kicking off the Gamma Phi Beta Centennial on November 13th. The Christmas Formal on November 30th sparked the Christmas season with cheer. And in the Spring, the actives' secrets kept pledges guessing as initiation approached. Work began on the Gamma Phi Summer Camp for underprivileged children. And planning got under way for the traditional Theme Party and Spring Formal. A busy, yet fun-filled Spring concluded with 'senior willing,' a farewell to the senior sisters who share the many memories of another year in Gamma Phi Beta.

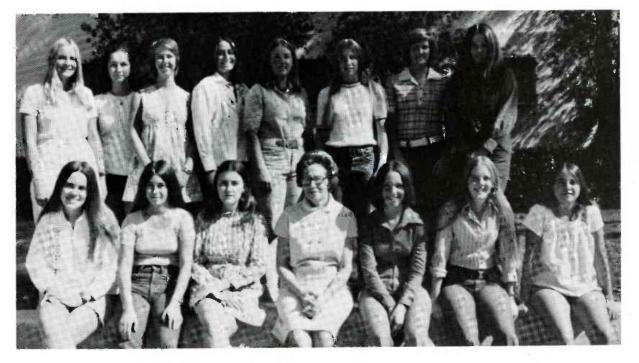

The girls of Kappa Alpha Theta are very active on campus. They have members in Kaydettes, Spurs, Symposium, U of A Hostesses, Rallies, Camp Wildcat, SUAB and auxiliaries to various fraternities. Outstanding girls in the house include Chris Wood, president; Emily Colter, ASUA secretary, and Lisa Pickett, Homecoming Queen finalist.

JOUNT'

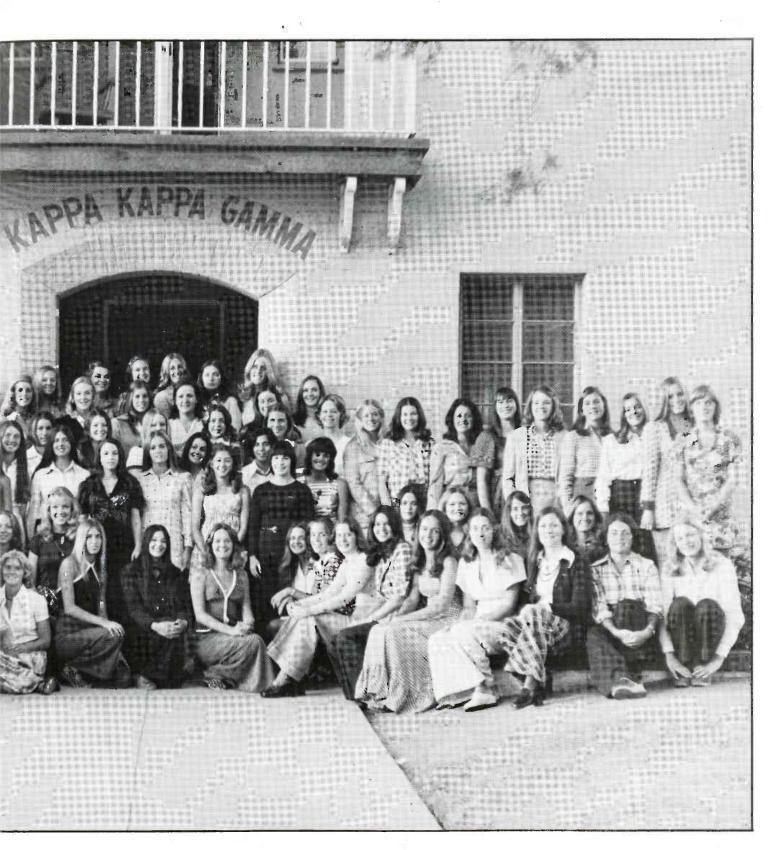

The Kappas, always busy at the U of A, have girls representing them in such campus activities as Hostesses, Mortar Board, Chimes, Spurs, Angel Flight and Kaydettes.

Honoraries such as Phi Chi Theta, Alpha Tau Alpha and Beta Gamma Sigma have Kappa Kappa Gamma members, in addition to Golden Hearts of Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pikettes, Little Sisters of Minerva and the Freshman Cheerleading squad.

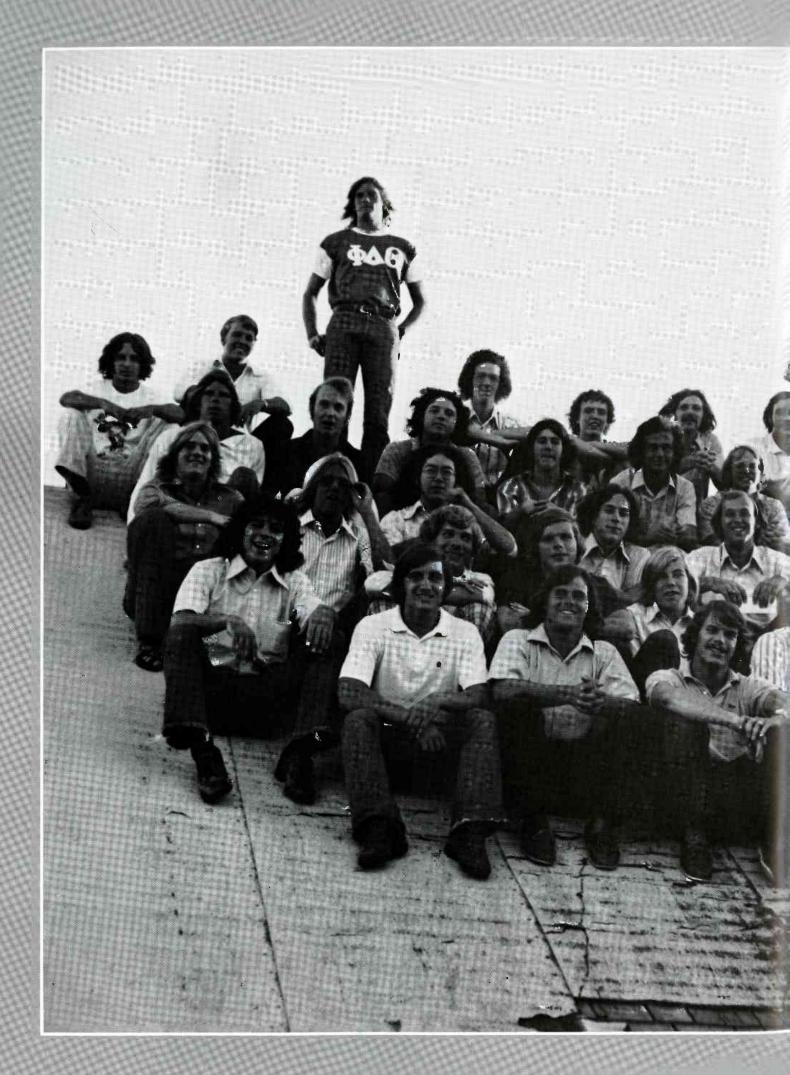

Kappa also work continuously throughout the year on their philanthropy—the University of Arizona Day Care Center.

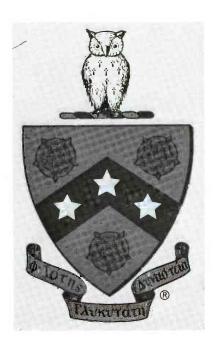

The men of Phi Delta Theta are probably recognized more for their diversity than for any other characteristic. Covering all points of Americana, the Phi Delts are individuals who bring a wide range of attitudes, view points and ideas into an atmosphere conducive to group involvement.

Abandoning their intellectual image, the Phi Delts participated in the intramural tournaments and their athletic prowess, particularly in football and basketball, was indicated by their large share of awards. The Phi Delts also are a social organization, and once again girls were a familiar sight around the house. TG's, mixers, kegers and weekend parties were held frequently. In addition, there were the annual Prohibition Party, Christmas Skiing Formal in the White Mountains and the Spring High Nooner as high points of the season. This year also marked the beginning of Phidelphians, a group of enthusiastic girls who the Phi's are proud to have as members.

All in all, an excellent year. And the Phi Delts look forward to even better ones—beginning next Fall!

The Fiji's have brothers in numerous campus clubs including Bobcats, of which Tim Pierson is president; Chain Gang, Ken Sobel, president; Sophos, Chris Cacheris, secretary; Blue Key; Phi Eta Sigma, Duane Stevens, president, Chris Wootan, vice president, Tony Hassiotis, secretary, Jim Bennett, social chairman; Traditions; Rallies, and Pre-law Association, Jim Dyer, president. Fiji, in addition, has received awards such as Honorable Mention as an 'Outstanding National Fraternity,' the Delta Tau Delta Service Award and recognition of superior academic achievement—26 consecutive years above the all-men's average. Phi Gamma Delta rounds out its house with varsity athletes on the U of A baseball, gymnastics and tennis teams.

"We take pride in our accomplishments, but our strength is in our brotherhood. That's why we are all mighty proud to be Fiji's."

MO

Phi Mu, the second oldest national fraternity for women in the United States, was founded in Macon, Georgia in 1852. Today, Phi Mu boasts a total membership of 60,000 with 128 collegiate chapters and over 200 alumnae chapters. Coast-to-coast, collegians and alumnae of Phi Mu support its national philanthropy, the Hospital Ship HOPE. Phi Mu can look to the past with pride in her heritage and strive to attain new goals to meet the needs and wishes of the contemporary coed.

Pi Phi is a way of loving,

It's a special feeling that we've grown to know so well,
And we know that Pi Phi means much more than good times,

It's a common giving of ourselves, and gaining truths in all we do . . .

After all the years, things we've learned right here, Will stay, in Pi Phi, love's the only way.

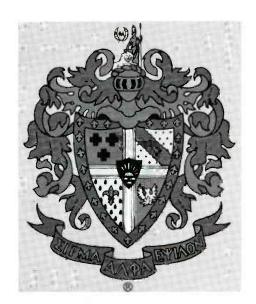

Pi Kappa Alpha is Brotherhood. It is a fraternity spanning borders, race, religion and prejudices based on petty differences. It also is a fraternity committed to the college and community in which it exists. The Pi Kappa Alpha membership education program is the focus of support the fraternity offers for personal development. And, finally, Pi Kappa Alpha is a fraternity that recognizes the value of diversity in its members and its programs.

CAJE

Charity activities kept the men of Sigma Alpha Epsilon occupied this year, beginning in the Fall with the annual boxing match and continuing with a helping hand to the Old Pueblo boys who were refurbishing their gym; having a Christmas dinner for underprivileged children and an Easter Party for blind girls and boys; organizing and officiating track meets and baseball games for mentally retarded children; helping kids from South Tucson sell flowers for the YMCA, and donating money to a drug abuse clinic—money earned by working for a local lumber yard. Surprisingly enough, the SAE's still had time to plan their Luau in the Fall, their Christmas Formal at Sunrise Mountain, an Easter Party and the big Patty Murphy Party in the Spring.

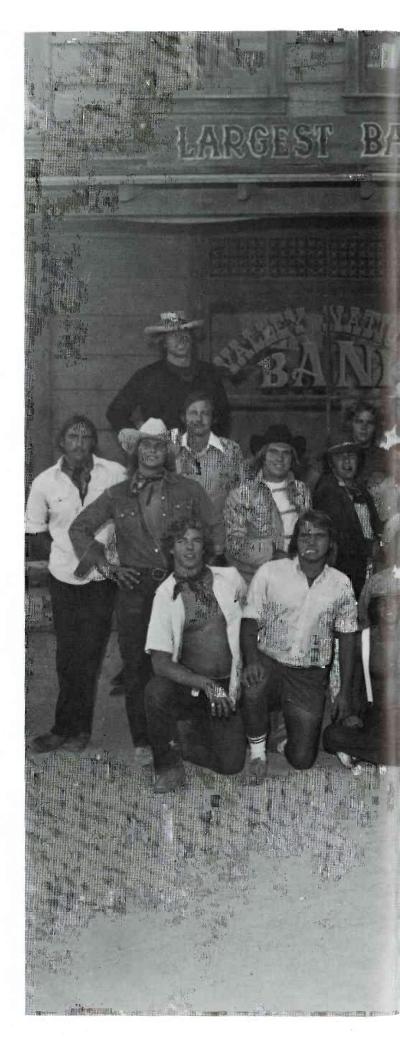

EN

Sigma Nu fraternity has been on the University of Arizona campus for over 55 years. Ever since its start in 1918, Sigma Nu has had an outstanding reputation among fraternities on campus. Sigma Nu, a national fraternity, is one of the largest in the country. The men of Sigma Nu come from all over the United States and have majors in all colleges at the university. The Chapter House is one of the most contemporary and largest on campus. The men in Sigma Nu participate in six varsity sports and are proud of being the first place winners in intramural sports among all fraternities for the last two years. Sigma Nu's are similarly active in all other phases of campus life—from service to national honoraries—as well as having one of the best social calendars all year round.

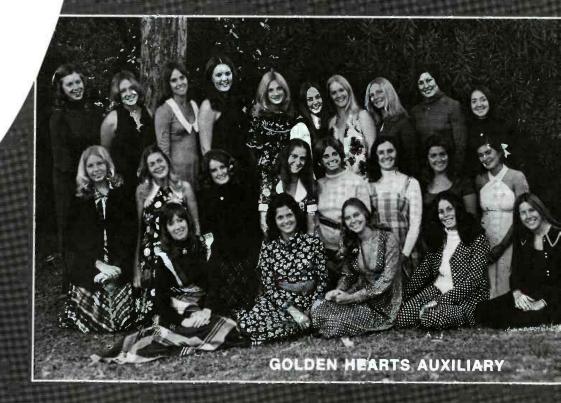

EGDE.

The Arizona Beta Chapter of Sigma Phi Epsilon presently consists of 78 active, diversified members and has been successful in filling its house with outstanding men in every field since it was founded at the University in 1954. Sig Ep is the second largest national fraternity and the U of A chapter has been selected as the outstanding chapter in the United States for two out of the past three years. Sig Ep also has the largest and most active girls auxiliary on campus—the Golden Hearts. The men of Arizona Beta continue to be active in various committees and honoraries. And, as in the past, Sigma Phi Epsilon provides its members with a stimulating scholastic and social atmosphere.

Delta Chi fraternity, which in the past semesters has stood for the epitome of resurgence, takes pride in its emphasis on the development of the individual — development ranging from social and athletic achievements to scholastic acumen. All of these ideas may be summed up by the words Delta Chi's stand by: "Our idea is so old it's back in style, living together to help one another and understand others."

MARY JANE CRIST

Assistant Dean of Students

"Mary Jane Crist has given all fraternities and sororities a goal worth striving for—the determination to build a successful and strong Greek system. She has become the backbone of our philosophy that going Greek is a living, learning experience—an alternative life style.

"When Mary Jane came here in 1973, Interfraternity Council was bankrupt and unorganized while Panhellenic Council was faced with innerconflict and lack of cooperation. With Mary Jane's help, both councils not only are active and successful groups but work well together in maintaining and improving Greek living.

"As an assistant dean of students, Mary Jane has become the friend that keeps our spirits high. Despite her sleepy eyes in the wee morning hours of formal rush, she always found energy to bring smiles to our faces and help to accomplish our duties.

"There really are not enough words to describe all that Mary Jane has done for the Greek system at the U of A. All we can say now is, 'Thanks M.J.!'"

Administrative Management Society

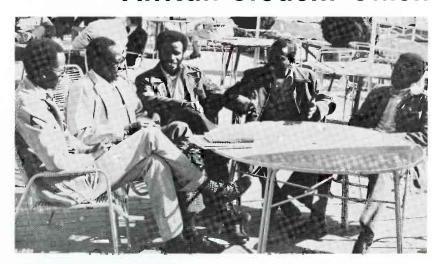

The African Student Union is dedicated to promoting unity and understanding among African students in the United States.

The 60-member organization contributed to Africa Week and International Week by displaying arts and crafts and inviting African speakers to campus; and also helped in the orientation of new students.

Governing the group is an executive board. Its members are Bello Sule, social committee chairman; Ben Okech, president; Bismark Nerquaye-Tetteh, vice-president; Lawal Bungudu, secretary; Ben Latigo, sports committee chairman.

Angel Flight

Members of Angel Flight strive to develop within themselves a more conscientious responsibility to their country, to serve the interests of the University, to promote leadership and friendship among themselves and others, and to serve as an auxiliary to Arnold Air Society. The 62 girls are chosen from applications submitted in the Spring.

Arnold Air Society

Arnold Air Society was created to further the purpose, tradition, mission and concept of the United States Air Force, to create a closer and more efficient relationship within the Air Force Reserve Officers Training Corps, and to aid the development of an effective professional Air Force officer in each member. All students in Air Force ROTC are eligible to join.

SSOCIATED STUDENTS

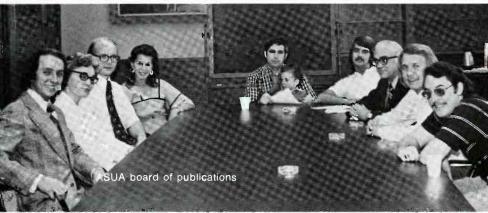

During 1973-74, ASUA set up a number of new committees. A student, faculty and administration committee was organized with the help of Dr. Richard M. Edwards and Dr. Gary M. Munsinger to set the groundwork for a University-wide teacher evaluation. ASUA set up a five-member committee to look into Bookstore policies and to see if a policy could be implemented whereby professors must use books for a minimum of two years. A committee was created to study the feasibility of a bus system operating throughout the campus and to investigate all facets of transportation problems that students face. My thanks to Dr. Martin C. Nizlek for his cooperation in this study. A committee made up of the ASUA student body president, an ASUA representative, two AID members and two members from Special Services was organized to work for improved conditions for handicapped students on campus. Plans were initiated to raise money for the purchase of a van for handicapped students to use during bad weather, for field trips and other needs. A Student Advisory Board to the president of the University was revitalized. Its membership included the ASUA president and elected representatives from the Amerind Club, Black Student Union, Concerned Chicano Students, Foreign Student Council, Human Relations Committee, National Organization for Women, Special Events Committee and Dormitory Relations Committee. This group met regularly with Dr. John P. Schaefer to discuss the problems of minority and dorm students.

The Human Relations Committee (Burney Starks, chairman) was a new committee established by the ASUA president to set up a series of forums on human relations. The Special Events Committee (Tim Clennan, chairman) was another new committee this year and was established to give ASUA a social conscience outlet. Tim worked with the United Farm Workers and along with Al Brandell, Brian Andregg and Paul Saba, and an informative prison colloquy in November resulted from their efforts. Rick Frey chaired a committee to study the tuition increase scheduled to take effect in the Fall. The committee's purpose was to keep students' tuition as low as possible.

ASUA worked for changes in the Code of Conduct with David Butler's Code of Conduct Committee and requested that a 'Student Bill of Rights' be added to the Code. Meetings with head librarian David Laird brought about increased library hours in the Science-Humanities Library. Instead of closing at 11:00 p.m., that library now remains open until 2:00 a.m. The Academic Services Committee (Dave Osterman and Al Zehngut, co-chairmen) worked with Dr. Munsinger to improve Summer registration procedures, night registration and to set up a teacher evaluation program.

The ASUA Athletic Committee (Bryna Vertlieb, chairwoman) attempted to stop the Athletic Department's charge for football and basketball games. Unfortunately, the charge came through. But the committee was able to get 300 better seats for students in McKale Center. The committee, with the help of David Strack and Chuck Magness, also established the lottery system for basketball games — which students hailed a success. Also, our thanks to Dr. Edwards, Mr. Strack, Mr. Magness and the Athletic Department for donating all the proceeds from the pre-season exhibition basketball game to Camp Wildcat.

The Concerts Committee (Aaron Zornes, chairman) had its funds cut back this year due to a $30,000 loss the preceding ASUA administration incurred. The committee worked long hours with Dr. Lloyd Weldy to bring promotors into both McKale Center and the Main Auditorium. The John Stewart concert in November was the first money-maker of the year for ASUA.

The Committee for Women (Kathi Mayer Rens, chairwoman) worked with the Arizona Daily Wildcat and NOW to expose any discrimination toward women on campus. The Community Relations Committee (Steve Downing, chairman) polled the Tucson community on its opinions of student concerns such as co-ed dorms and liquor on campus. The committee also served as a helpful link between campus and community.

The Dormitory Relations Committee (Jim Longo, chairman) actively worked to make the Department of Student Housing aware of poor dorm conditions and fought for extended visitation hours in dormitories. Our thanks to Marvin (Swede) Johnson and William H. Wallace for their cooperation. The Elections Commission (Jim Jones, chairman) established a strict elections code for the year's elections.

The ASUA president and the Greek Relations Committee's chairman, Dave Hameroff, met monthly with all the fraternity and sorority presidents who organized a very successful rummage sale in December—with proceeds going to Camp Wildcat. High School Relations Committee (Gary Thomas, chairman) organized all Senior Day activities for visiting high school students. The committee also invited high school senior leaders to campus to familiarize them with the U of A. The Legislative Relations Committee (Duke Figueroa and Jeff Neff, co-chairmen) organized the Legislative Relations Day on campus with the help of Vice-President Johnson. The committee also established a program whereby students can work on city government committees for either salary or credit.

The Regents Relations Committee (Denise Blommel, chairwoman) established the highly praised Student Advisory Board to the Arizona Board of Regents. The committee is made up of nine representatives from the three state universities, including the three student body presidents, the three Regents Relations Committee chairpersons and one representative from each campus. They met with the Regents three times during the academic year to discuss student problems. The Media Relations Committee (Jim McDowell, chairman) established policies and procedures for promoting ASUA events and activities to the local Tucson radio media.

This year the ASUA-SUAB liaison, Jim O'Keefe, kept ASUA up to date on what SUAB was doing and vice versa. Also, Robbie Lengacher set up the first retreat in years in order that ASUA and SUAB could have a chance to strengthen their communication. A special thanks to Judy Babcock, Vera Lander, Dean Robert S. Svob, Corky Taylor and Dave Gurzenski for their help in the retreat and to Cliff Holt for his helpful supervision of the Liquor on Campus Committee.

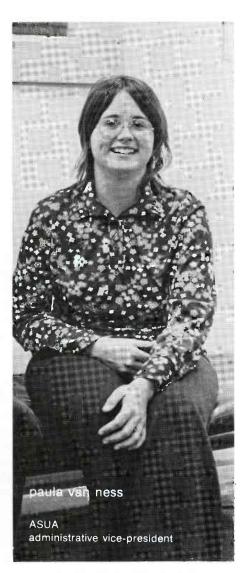

I want to thank and commend all the various committee chairpersons and members for their time and efforts in behalf of ASUA.

A yearbook such as DESERT/74 is not the creation of one individual, one editor. It is, rather, a composite of the total staff. The ideas, thoughts, perceptions, moods, interests, personalities of them all—be they section editors, photographers, layout artists, copy writers—are evident and captured on these pages for your information, interest and pleasure. For their graphic voices and the selfless time, energy and patience expended during 73/74, I give them my thanks.
